$10,000 Fire Sweeps North Main Store

800 GARMENTS DESTROYED BY BLAZE, WATER

Manager of Brooks Apparel Shop Notices Smoke and Turns In Alarm.

FLAMES SPREAD RAPIDLY

Dense Smoke Slows Up Firemen; 2 Gas Burners Seen as Cause of Blaze.

Fire of undetermined origin last night gutted the Brooks Apparel shop, 72 North Main street, causing damage estimated at more than $10,000. It was the second major blaze to hit the city in two days during which the fire department answered seven alarms.

Discovered shortly after 8 p. m. by W. R. Scheibel, manager of the store who turned in the alarm, the flames enveloped the rear half of the first floor of the three-story building, and firemen battled for more than an hour to bring the blaze under control.

Damaged by Fire, Water.

Approximately 800 men's and women's garments were burned or damaged by water, and Scheibel said the entire stock on the lower floor would be lost. Summer merchandise, which was stored on the second floor of the brick building, was damaged by smoke. Both merchandise and the building were insured.

Firemen, who fought the blaze from both the rear and the front of the store, were unable to enter the building for several minutes because of the smoke which billowed from the doors.

Four lines of hose, totaling about 2,000 feet, and three pumpers were used to fight the flames, Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger said. Fire companies No. 1 and 2 responded to the alarm.

The fire started in the rear of the building and spread toward

Rate 'Inadequate', Rail Leaders Plan Employe Lay-Offs

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Railroad executives, describing the new freight rate increase "inadequate," sought new methods of reducing operating expenses today. They indicated that employe lay offs may result.

One railroad — the Southern Railway System—already has announced a spread—the work program, reduction in working forces and salary cuts in an effort to decrease payrolls 10 to 15 per cent. Railway spokesmen said other railroads might take similar action.

Directors of the Association of American Railroads will hold a special meeting tomorrow to consider the rate increase authorized by the Interstate Commerce commission Tuesday and to plan "quick relief" for the industry.

Meanwhile, Sen. William E. Borah, R., Ida., said that freight rates had reached "the limit," and that President Roosevelt and railroad officials must find other means of relief at their conference next week.

3 Districts Ponder New Relief Shift

Mansfield, Shelby, Madison Township Study Plan to Aid Needy.

Mansfield, Madison township and Shelby began preparations today to take over the administration Mar. 15 of the relief set-up, handed to them yesterday by the county in compliance with a bill passed by the state legislature.

With their procedure uncertain, Mansfield and Madison township officials awaited an opinion from Attorney General Herbert S. Duffey on the legality of combining the city and township relief administrations under one head.

The state law gives townships no authority to administer relief except where they provide all the funds.

Mayor Calls Council.

Mayor D. Bruce Young of Shelby said he had called a special meeting of council for Monday night to consider means of handling the problem in the city, which has been a part of the county set-up.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter said today that the city plans no definite action until a ruling has been obtained from the attorney general's office. He was non-committal when asked if he intended to submit the problem of raising funds to council.

"We are going to need more money," he said, "but the problem of where it will come is still unsolved."

The major part of the relief burden is in Mansfield, with Madison township ranking second from the standpoint of expense.

County commissioners who already have provided funds to match a $5,500 monthly allocation from the state during the rest of 1938, will continue to distribute the state funds to the subdivisions.

Commissioners, however, will have no control over the administration of relief, which they have handled for the past two years. The county will pay all bills to March 15, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said, but added that "we don't know how yet."

The February bills, still unpaid, amounted to nearly $24,000, and the first half of March was expected to add at least $10,000 more to that figure.

JAPAN SCORES

Troops Seize Rail Line Vital to Central China Sector.

SHANGHAI—(A.P.)—A Japanese spearhead force that fought its way across the Yellow river at Szeshui, 25 miles west of Chengchow, succeeded today in interrupting transportation on the Lunghai railway.

Chinese sources admitted the Japanese had succeeded in cutting the railroad, east-west "life line" of central China and objective of a Japanese pincher movement since the fall of Nanking last December.

Chinese declared, however, bitter fighting still was going on, with the troops of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek attempting to wipe out the Japanese advance unit.

Japanese succeeded in establishing a base on the south side of the Yellow river under an artillery screen and despite floods loosed by cut dikes.

PLANT GUARDED

Police Watch Entrances After Battle In Peansy Strike.

HATBORO —(A.P.)— State police today patrolled the entrances to the Roberts and Mander Stove factory, cleared of sitdown strikers by non-striking workmen armed with clubs and tear gas.

Inside the plant, officials sought to determine the damage caused by the pitched battle last night in which a score were injured.

33 'FIRE TRAPS'

Ceveland Schools Dangerous, Fire Captain Says In Report.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Police Capt. Arthur G. Roth today described 33 Cleveland public schools as "fire traps" as he urged fire alarm installations in all school principals' offices.

Capt. Roth, a member of the police department assigned to safety work, gave his report to the housing committee of the school board.

French Premier Resigns as Parliament Refuses New Economic Authority.

BULLETIN

PARIS—(INS)—Leon Blum, Socialist ex-premier, today agreed to attempt to form a new government.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—Premier Camille Chautemps resigned today because he could not win from parliament the power to reorganize French finances and cut government finances by decree.

The premier wanted the decree powers, he told a crowded, silent chamber, because persistent rumors of cabinet changes had taken "all the liberty and power" from his government.

Emphasizing that the crisis which brought his fall was essentially political, rather than financial, Chautemps said, nevertheless, that:

"If we received the full powers necessary, this government would be able to carry on perfectly well."

The premier assured the deputies the treasury was in a safe position, although there is a prospective budget deficit of around

SOVIET TREASON TRIAL RECESSES

Prosecutor Prepares to Ask Death Penalty for Violators.

MOSCOW—(A.P.)—The court recessed today while Prosecutor Andrei Y. Vishinsky wrote his speech summing up conspiracy and murder charges against 21 defendants in Moscow's greatest treason trial as a basis for a demand for their deaths by shooting.

Vishinsky's demand for "the maximum measure of socialist punishment"—a shot in the back of the head—was expected to last an entire day.

Then would be handed to the court the fate of the defendants, many of them once the chief figures in Soviet Russia.

CAPONE BETTER

Ex-Gang Chief To Go Back To Work In Prison Laundry.

SAN FRANCISCO —(A.P.)— The San Francisco Examiner said today Al Capone, one-time Chicago gang chief who a month ago was placed in Alcatraz prison hospital because he was "mentally ill," has been returned to the prison yard.

The paper said Capone was told he would be expected to resume routine, which included work in the prison laundry.

'Flying Gages' Take Death Of Young Pilot 'Standing'

Father Insists Crash That Killed Son and Companion 'Couldn't Have Been Glenn's Fault.'

Flying is a risky business, and nobody knows it any better than the "flying family" of Gages, which owns its own airport and five airplanes.

So, when tragedy struck last night, bringing death in a crash from 2,000 feet to Glenn Gages, 29, and his flying companion, Theodore "Ted" Crum, the Gages took it standing up.

For 12 years flying has been the chief interest of the Gages, but the death of Glenn last night marked the first real plane disaster for the family.

Paul Gages, sr., father of the pilot who met his death in the fatal crash, managed somehow to hide his grief as he talked last night about the accident.

With his family gathered around him in the living room of his home on Park avenue west road, within sight of the scene where the fatal crash occurred, the stocky, grey-haired farmer told of the flying interests of the family and how Glenn had carried on from the time he left Mansfield Senior high school in his second year, to take up aviation.

"Yes we all fly, and four of us, including Glenn, were able to take the controls," he said. "And mother, she's been up many times too—" he paused to look across the table at the silver-haired woman who had reared the flying family.

He couldn't believe that the

STIRS LONDON

Von Ribbentrop Hears Shouts of 'Get Out!' by Britons.

LONDON — (A.P.) — Unfriendly demonstrations today greeted Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Germany's foreign minister, both before and after a conference in which he and Britain's foreign secretary canvassed the whole field of Anglo-German relations.

A crowd of 500 demonstrators tried to break strong police cordons as Von Ribbentrop left the foreign office after more than two hours with Viscount Halifax, new director of British foreign policy.

Cries of "Get out, Ribbentrop!" and "Release Niemoeller and Thaelmann!" were shouted at the German diplomat — referring to Rev. Martin Niemoeller, held in a German concentration camp, and Ernst Thaelmann, German communist leader, held without trial since 1933.

G. M. OFFICIAL DENIES 'DEAL' WITH DAVEY

'No Talk Whatever' on $25,000 Contribution, Witness Says at Bradley Hearing.

GOVERNOR IN COURT

Expected to Take Stand Late Today to Press Perjury Charge He Filed.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND—L. L. Tremper, General Motors official, denied from the witness stand today that he had entered into a "deal" to contribute $25,000 to Governor Davey's campaign in exchange for business favors.

Testimony of Tremper, the state's key witness in the municipal court hearing today of Governor Davey's perjury charge against Lee Bradley, was a flat contradiction of Bradley's testimony before the state senate investigating committee.

Tells of Job Quest.

Further, the witness declared, Bradley attempted to obtain a job with General Motors, but was turned down.

Tremper testified that he had met with Governor Davey and Bradley, who was described as the governor's former political contact man, at the Biltmore hotel in New York early in 1934. The conference was requested by Bradley and lasted "an hour or 45 minutes," Tremper said.

Assistant County Prosecutor Prosecutor Neil W. McGill then asked:

"Was there any talk of a $25,000 contribution to Davey's campaign?"

"None whatever," Tremper replied promptly.

McGill then asked if there had been any discussion of a deal whereby Bradley would receive commissions on state purchases of General Motors trucks, as related by Bradley before the senate investigators.

"None whatever," Tremper replied again.

Was First Meeting.

That conference marked Tremper's first meeting with Bradley, the General Motors official said. Asked if he saw Bradley again, Tremper replied in the affirmative, and said the meeting took place in Detroit two or three weeks later. He stated:

"He either wrote or telephoned

TROOPS CLASH

Insurgents Gain In Nine Fierce Battles on Aragon Front.

(By United Press)

HENDAYE, FRANCO-SPANISH FRONTIER — Spanish nationalists, undertaking one of the greatest offensives of the civil war, have driven back government troops in nine fierce battles along a 110-mile Aragon front, dispatches said today.

An estimated 400,000 troops, 180,000 on the insurgent side and 220,000 on the government's, opposed each other along a line extending from Fuentes De Ebro, just below Zaragoza, to Montalban on the northeastern front.

The insurgents said that government lines had been broken in four sectors and that their troops had advanced an average of five miles along the entire line.

Mansfield Talent Search Opens Path To Career on Screen and on Airwaves

News-Journal, NBC and Ohio Theater Start Hunt for Stars.

Mansfield may have a future big star of screen and radio, and to find this potential star, a talent search will be conducted in Mansfield by the National Broadcasting company, Warner Brother's Ohio theater and the News-Journal.

At least one Mansfield act will go on a four-week tour of six Ohio theaters, all expenses paid, and the final state winner will be given a three-day visit in New York City, an NBC audition and a screen test at Warner Brother's eastern studio.

As on the state tour, all expenses will be paid.

There will be three elimination auditions at the Ohio theater and one final, and these will be held on consecutive Thursday nights, starting Thursday, March 17. Winners each night will be selected by the audience by means of an applause machine.

But talent entries must be good before they can compete. Before they can take part in the elimination contests, they will be given an audition by E. R. Alcott, talent scout for NBC with headquarters at WTAM, Cleveland. Alcott will the... arrange the night on which the act will appear.

No person under 16 years of age may enter the talent contest, but any kind of entertainment may be submitted. Those desiring to enter may obtain application cards at the Ohio theater.

This talent search will be one of the most thorough ever staged in northern Ohio, and the final stakes are higher, for in addition to practical experience in the theater on a regular tour, the final winner will have an opportunity to try out for the screen as well as for radio work.

The tour of the finalists will include Warner theaters in Coshocton, Youngstown, Lorain, Cleveland (Uptown and Variety theaters) and Mansfield.

U. S. SEEKS CAUSE OF ACCIDENT THAT KILLED TWO HERE

Glenn Gages, Manager of Airport, and Theodore Crum, Student Pilot, Meet Death as Ship Goes Into "Flat" Spin, Plunges 2,000 Feet.

An investigation by the department of air commerce was under way today into the fatal crash late yesterday that took the lives of two Mansfield men when the light monoplane they were flying plunged to the ground four miles west of the city, less than a half hour after they had taken off from Gages airport.

William Robertson, Cleveland, inspector for the department, arrived in Mansfield this morning and went immediately to the scene of the accident in an effort to determine the cause of the crash.

Glenn Gages, 29, Park avenue west road, manager of Gages Flying Service, and Theodore Thomas "Ted" Crum, 30, of 283 Fifth avenue, a student flier, were carried to their death at 5:15 p. m. yesterday as Gages' sport model plane crashed in an attempted landing.

Gages' skull was fractured and he was dead when motorists who saw the plane fall, extricated his body from the wreckage. Crum died in General hospital from internal injuries without regaining consciousness a half hour after he was removed there in an ambulance.

Robertson talked to Paul Gages, sr., father of the pilot, and two other witnesses of the fatal crash.

He said he would submit his findings to the department of commerce in Washington, and that the board would make public its theory as to the cause of the crash. He said he was not permitted to make such a statement, but did comment on the fact that neither Gages nor Crum was wearing a parachute.

2nd Tragedy In 10 Days.

Last night's crash was the second air tragedy to strike Mansfield within 10 days. On March 1, a TWA liner was lost in California, with J. Tracy and Mary Lou Dirlam, Mansfield students at Leland Stanford university, on board. The plane has not been found.

Gages' plane plunged on the farm of Edward Gale, which adjoins the airport property, on Park avenue west road.

The trim blue and gold sport model monoplane nosed into the side of a grassy knoll a quarter of a mile north of route 30S, the motor being buried in the soggy ground and the undercarriage ripped off.

The safety belts of both men were snapped in two by the force of the impact, showing that they had been fastened at the time the

'LOST' PLANE LANDS, 10 SAFE

Night-Long Battle With Gale, Rain, Fog Ends at Carolina Emergency Airport.

(By United Press)

RICHLANDS, N. C. — An American Airlines transcontinental passenger plane, after an all-night battle with wind, rain and fog, landed on an emergency field two miles south of here at 6:30 a. m., today without injury to its seven passengers and crew of three.

One wing and the propeller of the big plane were damaged in the forced landing. Pilot B. A. Carpenter said he would make no attempt to take off again. Arrangements were being made to entrain the passengers to Washington.

The compass of the plane failed to function properly shortly after the plane left Washington last night, it was reported. The ship was enroute from Newark airport to Los Angeles by way of Washington and Atlanta.

Carpenter reached Charleston, S. C., but was unable to land because of fog. He turned back, and flew all night over the coastal section of North Carolina until day break, when it was light enough to set the plane down on the emergency landing field.

His gas was almost exhausted when he put the plane down near the W. B. Venter farm.

Among the passengers was Peggy Fears, glamour girl of the New York stage of years past and the divorced wife of A. C. Blumenthal, theatrical producer.

Richlands is an emergency field on the regular air line, and it showed up clearly in a murky dawn through the fog. Carpenter sat his plane down.

NAMED AGAIN

Hutchison Re-appointed Trustee Of Children's Home.

Atty. R. E. Hutchison, Mansfield, had been re-appointed today to the board of trustees of the Richland County Children's Home for a five-year term. The appointment was made by the county commissioners.

Atty. Hutchison has served on the board for one full term and a part of another unexpired term. Other members of the board are Mrs. Emma Young, Mrs. G. J. Kochenderfer and John H. Finefrock, all of Mansfield, and O. W. Kuhn, Jackson township.

FOOT TROUBLE

Detroit Relief Officials Hunt Pair of Size 14 Shoes.

DETROIT— (I.N.S.) —A large pair of feet gave relief officials a new problem today. They were faced with the task of finding a pair of shoes size 14 quadruple for Sam Robinson, 41, relief client who formerly lived in Troy, Alabama.

MORE DELAY

Storm Interferes With Search For Lost Plane.

A storm moving in from the Pacific, and due to bring heavy snows to the Sierra Nevada mountains today further discouraged searchers for the lost Transcontinental and Western Airways plane which disappeared March 1, carrying nine persons, including two Mansfielders.

It was feared the approaching storm will make further search for the plane impossible after today.

Ground parties and several planes set out again today for the Bass Lake region, in which the plane is believed to have crashed or come down a week ago Tuesday.

Mrs. Jay N. Dirlam, mother of J. Tracy and Mary Lou Dirlam, who were on the ship, and Rufus A. Tracy, their grandfather, are on their way by train to Fresno, center of the search. They left Mansfield yesterday.

Mrs. Hypes Gives Book Review For Regular Meeting

Mrs. E. M. Olin entertained members of the Conversational club yesterday at the home of Mrs. L. L. Kochenderfer, 17 Highland avenue. At this meeting Mrs. George Hypes reviews "Northwest Passage" by Kenneth Roberts. This is a historical book dealing with the settling of the Northwest territory and the problems and difficulties encountered.

Mrs. Hypes illustrated the book review with a map of the territory and one she had made showing the travels of the party in the territory. Mrs. G. W. Hall was taken into membership. Mrs. Hall recently moved to Mansfield from Baltimore.

Luncheon was served at a table decorated with spring flowers. Mrs. F. E. Ross poured. The next meeting will be a guest luncheon March 23 at the Women's Club with Mrs. W. E. Wygant as hostess.

Indian Art Inspires Southern Wear Jewelry

Of Seminole Indian inspiration is a new set of costume jewelry for southern wear, seen in Miami, Fla. The ensemble of white catalin is laquered with alternate half-inch strips of green, gold, yellow, blue, orange and black, and forcibly reminds one of the popular striped hard candy.

This new jewelry is very large, and either square or oval in shape, consisting of a brooch, linked or solid bracelet, buckle, clips and earrings. Though the size of the pieces is considerable, they are not heavy.

Another ensemble of jewelry seen at Miami is prystal bunches of grapes lacquered on their undersides with varying tones of green for leaves, red and purple for grapes.

City League to Stage Cage Carnival at M.H.S. Tuesday

INDIAN RECRUITS OPEN SPRING SCHEDULE TODAY

Weatherly Only Veteran Slated to See Action Against New Orleans Pelicans.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(U P)—Manager Oscar Vitt was to test his Cleveland rookies under competitive fire here today when the Tribe played its initial practice game of the training season against the New Orleans Pelicans.

The only veteran scheduled to see service was Roy Weatherly, diminutive outfielder, who is attempting to make a comeback after a miserable season a year ago.

In the outfield with Weatherly will be stationed Bill Sodd and Mike McCormick. The infield will have Oscar Grimes at first, Lloyd Russell at second; Tommy Irwin at short and Ken Keltner at third. Henry Helf was scheduled to do the pitching; with Bill Zuber, John Humphries and Charley Suche sharing the mound assignment.

Johnny Allen, the big right-hander who won 15 games and lost one last season, took his first work-out with the squad yesterday. With his arrival only holdouts Jeff Heath and Julius Solters were absent from camp.

GENERAL MANAGER C. C. Slapnicka was en route to camp and wired Vitt congratulations for his handling of the Rollie Hemsley case.

Slapnicka said:

"I approve and commend Vitt on his drastic action. I hope Hemsley will return after he has had the opportunity to think over his recent uprising and will decide to give his best efforts to the club. Otherwise Hemsley is due to spend a long summer on his Missouria farm and Frankie Pytlak will do most of the catching."

First Lutheran grabbed undisputed possession of first place in the Church Class A league race last night at the Y. M. C. A.

The Lutherans, who had shared the top position with First M. E. for several weeks, walloped St. John's 29 to 19, as the Methodists were dropping a 25 to 23 decision to the Temple Emanuel.

Led by Bob Martin, who tallied 10 points, the Lutherans spurted in the opening frame to take a lead they never relinquished. St. John's cut the winners' lead to a 13 to 12 count at the half, but were unable to halt the Lutherans after the intermission.

Temple Emanuel got off to a whirlwind start last night by taking a 13 to 6 lead, over First M. E. and increased it to 20 to 12 count at the half. Lerner topped the winners with eight points.

In the other affairs, the Episcopals defeated the Park Avenue Baptist club, 36 to 30, and St. Paul's smothered Central M. E., 34 to 21. The box-score of the Mayflower-United Presbyterian tilt was not turned in.

THE most attractive basketball program to be staged in Mansfield this year will be held on the Senior high hardwood Tuesday night.

In an attempt to bolster the City Class A league's finances, the circuit will offer a three-game card involving two outstanding out-of-town clubs. Bliss college of Columbus, one of the classiest outfits in the Capital city, and the Globe Clothiers of Galion have been signed for the program. The third club will be the Richland county coaches.

The three combines will tackle the leading teams of the City Class A league, Yuncker Sports, Westinghouse Electrics and the Elks club.

Tally Victories.

Yuncker Sports and Westinghouse swung down the home stretch neck to neck in opening games of the third and final round of the City league schedule last night by tallying victories on the Mansfield high court before a small, but enthusiastic crowd.

The Sports registered their ninth straight circuit triumph by coming from behind to down a stubborn Elks club, 28 to 21, while the Westies toppled the Mack Pure Oils, 32 to 23, in a rough-and-tumble opening affair.

The Elkmen gave the Sports one of their toughest battles of the year. Not until the fading minutes of the thrill-packed melee were the winners out in front by a comfortable margin.

Fighting to hand the champions of the first and second rounds their first defeat, the Elks opened up with a fast-breaking attack to sweep the taller Yuncker combine off its feet in the opening chapter.

Freddie Lewis and Noel Morgan "went to town" in the first half to spot the Elks a 14 to 9 lead. Morgan collected seven and Lewis six points.

After the intermission, the rebounding of lanky Tom Farrell and his taller teammates began to tell.

Bob Fisher came to the front for Jimmy Breres' club and three difficult side shots pushed the team ahead 20 to 17, late in the chapter. He then added a pair of setups and the Sports were out in front to stay.

Smith Ices Game.

Vern Jones' club met some stiff competition from the dangerous Pure Oils. After a nip-and-tuck opening half, Inwood Smith finally broke loose long enough to score a couple of setups to ice the affair.

Led by Jim Heiser and Fred Vogel, the Oils remained in the thick of the battle until the last five minutes.

The Westies led, 17 to 10, at the half, but the score hardly gives an indication of the obstacle they had to overcome to win.

Jim Heiser dropped in several from the center of the court in the last half to keep the Oils in the running.

Smith tipped in 11 points to set the individual pace, with Heiser and Vogel scoring nine and eight, respectively, for the Oilmen.

Jack Applan and the Roma Lunch club were responsible for most of the noise emanating from the Meder Recreation pin emporium last night.

Applan merely socked out an even 700 to lead the Lunches to a 3055 total and a pair of victories over the Meder Recreation club in a City Class A league match.

Games of 220, 224 and 256 were rolled by Applan. Henry Michaels contributed a 622, and Clyde Ritter followed with an even 600. The Lunches featured a middle game of 1110, as the Meder team rolled a 2865 total, led by Pete Linster's 613 and Ted Ganyard's 604.

The first place Miller Oldsmobiles pounded out a 2720 to take two tilts from the Lumbermens Mutuals, who rolled a 2759. Brig Young slapped out a 616 for the Olds.

Sporting a 2762 total, the Metcalf Pure Oils swept their series with the Liederkranz club.

A.B.C. Champs Never Repeat

GENE GAGLIARDI

Gagliardi Must Beat 24.875 to Retain Title.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Writer.

RARE indeed is it that a defending champion in the American Bowling Congress, greatest of all mass sports, repeats. It just isn't done.

Entries for the thundering event this year, currently holding forth in Chicago's Coliseum, are record-breaking in all three divisions. Perhaps the effect of the record-breaking entry list may cast its spell on the defending champions and former titleholders and repeat performances will enliven the proceedings.

Perhaps the most difficult division in which to repeat is the singles. The defending champion, Gene Gagliardi, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., for example, must roll a higher three-game total on shiny, new alleys, than 24,875 others. That, you may agree, is some tough picking.

Gagliardi Is Back.

Gagliardi, who blasted 749 to win the singles and first prize money of $300 last year in New Yorw City, will attempt to repeat. His 749 last year was the second highest individual total made in the tourney in 37 years.

In the doubles, Virgil Gibbs of Kansas City, Mo., and Nelson Burton of Dallas, Tex., joined forces to win last season. Their mark was 1,359. The all-events titleholder is Max Stein of Belleville, Ill., who compiled 2,070, which was a new record by 10 pins. The team champion attempting to retain its title is the Kakow Furniture Co. team, of Detroit.

Last year more than 20,000 entrants paid $217,350 in entry fees and competed for more than $145,000 in prize money. It is believed more than 9,000,000 bowlers throughout the U. S followed the contests which lasted 56 days and nights. It was a record tourney for prizes, entries and entry fees.

Banner Year Again.

And this year is another banner year More than 4,950 teams are entered. The singles list includes more than 17,000 bowlers. The doubles will see more than 8,600 teams The keglers come from virtually every section of the United States, from Canada and Hawaii.

Height of Tygers' Foe May Decide Semi-Final Tussle

THE chances of the Mansfield Tygers to whip Bellevue in a semi-final game in the district tournament at Sandusky Friday night will depend on their play around the basket.

If they can obtain their share of the rebounds, the Tygers may advance to the finals to be staged Saturday.

But if the taller Redmen dominate play around the backboard as they have in other games this year, Coach Russ Murphy's men are likely to return home late Friday with a defeat dangling from their belts.

Bellevue has the height to control the ball, and what type of strategy Murphy will employ in an attempt to offset this advantage will be watched with interest.

Murphy recruited a number of former high school stars who have height to work against the Tygers in drills this week in an effort to prepare them for the tussle with the big Redmen.

Mansfield has a couple of good-sized boys in Elmer Dials and Jack Dugger, but Bellevue has a center in Dials who will tower over both.

Not all of Murphy's worries are centered in Snyder, however.

Scouting Bellevue in the Port Clinton game, Murphy learned that the Redmen have a pair of other dangerous men in Basch, a forward, and Houle, a guard.

They have been the mainstays of the Redmen on the attack.

DEFEND I-C PIN TITLES

Mansfield Women Compete Over Week-End In Tournament at Findlay.

With defending champions in three of the events hailing from Mansfield, the performances of the city's feminine pinsters entered in the Inter-City Women's tournament to be held in Findlay this week-end, will be watched with interest.

The 1937 champions include the Liederkranz club, which won the team title under the name of the Heilman Service Station; Mary McMullen and Margaret Baker, doubles, and Thelma Linster, all-events.

Failed Only In Singles.

The only championship Mansfield bowlers failed to win in the tournament at Fostoria last year was the singles, which was annexed by Mrs. I. L. Martin of Sandusky with a 618 total. Thelma Linster finished second with a 598.

As the championship team is intact, the Liederkranz club is favored in the five-women event. The club came through with a 2484 total at Fostoria last year.

The McMullen-Baker duo won the doubles title with a 1057 total, and Mrs. Linster headed the all-events with a 1616.

Only three Mansfield teams are entered in the Findlay event. The Heilman Grocers are scheduled at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, while the Meder Recreation and Liederkranz clubs will take to the alleys at 9:30.

Continue Sunday.

Mansfield keglers will roll their minor events at 3:30 p. m. Sunday, with the McMullen-Baker and Linster-Meder combinations listed among the favored duos.

RE-ELECTS OFFICERS

Bowling Association Again Names Finefrock, Young.

Harry C. Finefrock was re-elected president and W. S. (Brig) Young was re-named secretary of the Mansfield Bowling association at a recent meeting of the association.

Henrich Holds Edge In Homers at Least.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—The battle for the left field berth on the New York Yankees is on with Tommy Henrich and Jake Powell the contestants. To date, after one intrasquad game, the score is: Henrich, two homers, four runs batted in; Powell, two singles and a homer.

Appear Friday In Galion Ring

Five Mansfield Scrappers on Tourney Card.

Five Mansfield amateur boxers will return to Galion Friday night to appear in the final bouts of the simon-pure tournament which is being staged for the benefit of ahe Good Samaritan hospital.

Mansfielders slated to appear are the Glover boys, Marvin and Beauford; Bob (Curley) Miller, James Thomas and Paul Carbetta.

Marvin Glover is slated to meet Charles Hightower of Bucyrus, and the winner will face the victor of the bout between Frank Kleinecht, Galion, and Frank Parker, Ashland.

Beauford Glover engages George Fleiner of Crestline, with the winner facing either Thomas or Bob Shaw of Galion, who vie in another semi-final scrap.

Miller tackles Odis Scott of Marion. If Miller wins this bout, he will meet either Ernie McKinley of Ashland or Alex Zachary. McKinley recently decisioned Miller in a Friendly House bout.

Carbetta is scheduled to meet Gib Mollenkopf of Bucyrus in a championship bout.

SETS DATES FOR FIGHTS

Jr. C. of C. to Stage Amateur Bouts at Y. M. C. A. April 20, 21, 27.

The Mansfield Golden Gloves boxing tournament, sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce, will be held at the Y. M. C. A., April 20, 21 and 27.

Plans for the tourney, which will be conducted under the rules of the Northeast Ohio Amateur Athletic union, were made at a recent meeting of the Junior association.

The tourney, which will decide district champions, is expected to attract amateur boxers from a radius of 50 miles around Mansfield.

Nearly a dozen entries have already been received, according to Atty. Harold Burns, member of the entries committee.

Named by Atty. Francis R. O'Brien, president of the association, the committees in charge of the boxing tourney are:

RANDOM SHOTS

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

MANSFIELD S TYGERS hold the distinction of being the only team now drawing a bye in the first round of the Sandusky district tournament still involved in the elimination.

The two T fun schools Columbian and Junior Order; Fremont, Norwalk and Willard who shared the first night's play with the Tygers have been eliminated.

In the Moose national bowling tournament over the week-end, Bill Gow of Xenia 11 received credit for a 302 game. Sounds ridiculous doesn't it

Well, Bill didn't actually roll such a score but he did account for a 268 Adding his handicap of 34 pins to this total a 302 is the result

SOMEONE mentioned that quite a basketball team could be built around Frascella, Luisetti and Chuckovits at a recent gathering of coaches. "Add Bob Crawford and Tom Greulich and it would be unbeatable" Gil Wickart, Lucas high coach, replied. Crawford and Greulich set the scoring pace in the county this season.

Much ado has been made over the scoring gaits set by the collegiate aces this year. So why not give some of the high school scoring aces credit? Eddie Lore, Mt. Vernon star, deserves some mention In a dozen games, the crack Jacket compiled 279 points. He will probably boost his total over the 300 mark in tournament competition.

YOUTH REFORM BY PUNISHMENT FOUND TO FAIL

Woman Jurist in Memphis Says 80 Per Cent in Her Court Made Good.

(By United Press)

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—In 17 years on the Memphis juvenile court bench, Judge Camille Kelley estimates she has tried the cases of 36,000 children, and she says that approximately 80 per cent of them have made good in later life.

Thumbing through a stack of records dating back to 1920, Judge Kelley declared that most children brought before her were not inherently bad.

"Just because a boy is a little michievous—or makes a childish moral slip—it is not a sign that criminality is rooted in him," she said.

In defense of the juvenile court, the judge pointed out that the court's purpose was not to punish children, but to reclaim them and make them useful citizens. However, she said, sometimes officials had to be severe for the child's own good.

"It is dangerous for those in authority to look at dangerous crime tendencies lightly," she said, "but it is equally dangerous to see as serious crimes a child's natural misbehavior and his perfectly normal overflow of youthful energy."

Judge Kelley based her statements on absolute proof. Numerous cases taken from the files contained records of boys she once reprimanded or advised, and who had later grown to manhood to become worthy persons.

One case concerned 13-year-old William, regarded by police as one of the toughest youths in town. His misdeeds accumulated and when officers finally took him before Judge Kelley he faced nine charges, ranging from stealing to destroying property.

The boy was sulky when he stood before the judge. She sentenced him to a year in the State Agricultural and Training School.

When he emerged from the institution a probation officer took a personal interest in him. William had learned many things at the school and when the officer encouraged his better instincts, the boy saw his own errors and changed completely.

THEATER

HOLLYWOOD producers have just seen a "super colossal epic" production, which leaves them highly envious, and the chances are that from now on they will be striving to equal it. There were plenty of dramatic sidelights too, from which stories may be built up. Madeliene Carroll, lovely English star was marooned three days at her home in Malibu beach and when she did get out she had to wade, barefooted, through mud that came to her knees, for three miles. Leo Carrillo saw a man drifting with the current and keeping himself up with difficulty. Carrillo dashed to a near by shed, grabbed a rope and making a lasso of it, hurled it to the man, who caught it. There were hundreds of such highlights and in time, one may expect to see them in the movies

Prison Romance.

A romance between a warden's daughter and a convict forms the motivating theme back of "Penitentiary," which is being shown at the Madison. Jean Parker, diminuitive player who makes few pictures since her marriage, returns to the screen to play the daughter of Walter Connolly, the warden. John Howard is the convict who is sent to prison when he serves as a political football for an ambitious politician. Because of his intelligence and ability to hold himself above the other prisoners, he wins the attention of the warden's daughter, and in the end wins the right to return to ordinary citizenship.

Gold in Wheat.

California as it was in 1870 and the ensuing decade is the locale of "Gold Is Where You Find It," the Ohio theater attraction. The picture is all in a new type of Technicolor and is said to appear more natural than "God's Country and The Woman," which was generally conceded to be the most natural film ever made in color. Olivia deHavilland and George Brent head the cast, each representing two factions in a bitter feud, that which took place between the wheat ranchers and the hydraulic miners of California. It is built up to an action-filled climax in which a dynamited dam sends tons of water down over the barricaded miners.

Singing Star.

"The Singing Marine" which the Majestic is showing the last half of the week, gives Dick Powell another opportunity to wear a uniform, a task to which he has become accustomed since he joined the movies. He is seen as a bashful buck private in the San Diego marine barracks, who gets a chance to go to New York and sing on a famous amateur program. He goes over big and makes a tremendous salary, which goes to his head and develops him into a first class heel. But he redeems himself later, in a spectacular manner, and wins the respect of his buddies and the one and only girl, Doris Weston. The second attraction is Paul Muni in "Bordertown," with Bette Davis and Margaret Lindsay.

New Serial Booked.

The Ritz offers an attractive bill on Friday and Saturday, with two features and a new serial starting. The serial is a film version of the popular newspaper adventure cartoon, "Radio Patrol," with Grant Withers as Pat O'Hara. "Charlie Chan on Broadway," with Warner Oland, brings a new adventure in the life of the clever Chinese-American detective who solves a murder with the aid of a candid camera. Gene Autry, singing cowboy, who has risen in little more than two years to be the top box office attraction among Western stars, will be shown in "Boots and Saddles" Judith Allen plays opposite him. Autry sings the popular cowboy song from which his picture takes its title.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Ethel Parton's latest book for children "Vinny Applegay" is the story of a little girl of the 1870's, who goes to live in New York with her bachelor uncle. Being "lady of the house" is fun but it has its responsibilities. The most exciting event each week is the visit to the greenhouse, with her cousin "Mouse." The object of the visit, is, of course, to buy flowers for the table, but it is a grand excuse to play jungle in a perfect location, or setting!

This book, to a great extent, is the story of the author's own childhood. She has also written:

"Melissa Ann," a little girl of the eighteen twenties, "Tabitha Mary," a little girl of 1810; "Penelope Ellen" and her friends, three little girls of 1840.

NOTE RALLYING SIGNS AS RAILS LEAD ADVANCE

Market Followers Comforted By Gains Reported In Construction.

NEW YORK—Signs of a quiet rally appeared in today's early stock market dealings.

Rails led the forward move after being slightly in arrears at the opening. Steels, motors, farm implements and rubers were in moderate demand. Many issues, however, were at a standstill or off a shade near the second hour.

Carriers seemed to have recovered somewhat from disappointment over the freight rate decision, hopes being revived for constructive results at the White House conference to be held next week on the railroad situation.

Market followers found a grain of comfort in the survey of the Engineering News-Record which reported construction awards this week touched a new high mark since the final June week last year. The total was placed at 94 per cent above the preceding week and 96 per cent over the comparable 1937 period.

Clouding the picture was the Dun & Bradstreet figures disclosing bank clearings for the week ended yesterday recorded the 17th consecutive drop from the previous year's levels. The decline for 22 principal cities amounted to 20.2 per cent.

DENIES SHOOTING

Accused Police Killer's Counsel Calls More Witnesses.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Defense counsel summoned additional witnesses today in the first degree murder trial of Stephen Figuli, 20, of Cleveland, who denied vigorously from the stand that he fired any shots in a gun battle last Feb. 4 in which Detective Robert Cline and two bank bandit suspects were slain.

Want to Know Why You're Constipated?

Would you give a million to shake off that dull, dopey, played-out feeling that often comes with common constipation? Then stop a minute and think.

What have you had to eat this week? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? Probably the reason you're constipated is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean how much you eat. It means a kind of food that isn't entirely digested, but leaves a soft, bulky mass in the intestines which helps a bowel movement.

What to do? Eat some Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. This crunchy toasted cereal is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains both the intestinal tonic vitamin B_1, and iron.

Eat All-Bran every day and drink plenty of water. See if you don't get off your heels and on your toes! Kellogg's All-Bran is sold by every grocer.

Catarrh Is Danger To The System

Not a Minor Complaint, But a Serious Disease and Health Wrecker

CAUSES OF NASAL CATARRH RELATED

Is One of The Most Common Forms and Often Leads To Serious Results

One of the most common kinds of catarrh is the chronic nasal form. This condition may result from repeated attacks of cold in the head or it may follow typhoid fever, scarlet fever, measles or some other prostrating disease which leaves the system weakened.

The mucous membranes of the nose and air passages of the head become permanently thickened and the glands diseased. There is the constant ejection from the nose and throat of a thick, ropy substance, or, in some cases, the discharge is watery, thin and irritating.

The victim often suffers from headache, liver, kidney, bladder and bowel trouble, rheumatism and many other ailments, or may experience a dull, heavy fullness or pressure in the head. Memory often fails and the disposition becomes irritable and despondent. The mental faculties suffer and in some cases, insanity finally results.

World's Tonic is a systemic treatment to help fight catarrh. It not only quickly relieves distress at the point where the catarrh exists, but at the seat of the trouble within the system and it has brought astonishing results in countless cases.

World's Tonic is sold in Mansfield at Central Drug Store.—Adv. (A-118)

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Never Look Back. By Harold Gray

THOUGHT YOU'D LIKE TO SEE THE PAPERS, SHANGHAI - THEY RAN THAT THRILLING NOVEL YOU DICTATED TO THE REPORTERS ON THE FRONT PAGES-
THANKS, CHIEF- HM-M-M MY BEARD PHOTO-GRAPHED - WELL-
3-10-38
YOU CERTAINLY HAVE A TALENT FOR ANONYMITY- I WAS SURE THOSE REPORTERS WOULD DRAG OUT EVERY SECRET OF YOUR TORTUOUS PAST-
I NOTICED YOU ON THE EDGE OF THE CROWD - YOU DIDN'T MISS A WORD-
WHY, CHIEF, YOU SAW ME - I BROKE DOWN AND CONFESSED ALL - I BARED MY SOUL - AND YOU MEAN TO SAY YOU DOUBT CERTAIN POINTS? I ADMIT THE BEARD WAS DECEITFUL - BUT I AM A MODEST FELLOW-
SHANGHAI - I DON'T KNOW WHO YOU ARE - I WON'T EVEN ASK - AFTER SAVING TOMMY'S LIFE, YOU'VE GOT THE COPS IN THESE PARTS ON YOUR SIDE, WHETHER YOU CARE OR NOT-
THANKS, CHIEF- I'VE ALWAYS BEEN ON YOUR SIDE

PAMELA, HOW'D YOU LIKE TO TAKE A LITTLE TRIP OUT OF TOWN FOR A FEW DAYS?
A TRIP OUT OF TOWN - WHY - WHERE TO, COLONEL CAREY? - SOUNDS INTERESTING!
TO MY COUSIN SALLY'S! - YOU REMEMBER MY SPEAKING OF ---
--HER, MY FAVORITE AND NEAREST KIN, COUSIN SARAH BALDWIN - HER MOTHER AND MY FATHER WERE SISTER AND BROTHER - SHE LIVES IN A LITTLE TOWN DOWN IN GEORGIA, CALLED DIXBURG - SHE'S A PRECIOUS OLD SOUL AND SHE'S WRITTEN ME A VERY URGENT LETTER ASKING ME IF I CAN'T SPARE A LITTLE TIME AND COME TO SEE HER! IT'S BEEN QUITE A WHILE SINCE I'VE BEEN THERE AND --- --I WOULD REALLY LOVE TO SEE THE DEAR OLD SOUL AGAIN! SHE'S HAVING SOME KIND OF TROUBLE ABOUT HER HOUSE - THINKS I'M THE ONLY ONE CAN STRAIGHTEN IT OUT -- NOW I CAN TAKE ALL THE DATA ON THIS CASE I'M WORKING ON - STUDY IT DOWN THERE JUST AS WELL AS HERE - - MAYBE BETTER - QUIETER THERE - BUT I'D NEED A LOT OF TYPING DONE - AND THAT'S WHERE YOU COME IN - - VERY TECHNICAL WORK - COULDN'T TAKE A CHANCE ON FINDING SOME ONE THERE TO DO IT!
WE CAN HAVE MISS LEE IN TO DO PAUL'S WORK WHILE WE'RE AWAY - YOU'LL LIKE COUSIN SALLY, I KNOW - AND SHE USED TO HAVE A WONDERFUL COOK! - HOW'S IT STRIKE YOU?
COLONEL, IT SOUNDS GRAND!! I'D LOVE TO GO!

PROBES FATAL PLANE CRASH

U. S. Seeks Cause of Accident That Killed Airport Head, Student Pilot Here.

craft crashed. The instrument panel was shattered. There was no fire, which led airport attaches to believe that Gages, a veteran flier of many years, had cut the switch when he attempted to land.

John Gage, a cousin of Gages, said the pair had taken off at 4:45 p. m. and had been up about 30 minutes. Gages at the controls was giving instructions to Crum who planned to take an examination for a private pilot's license soon.

They had climbed to approximately 3,500 feet and put the ship through a series of tail spins which is one of the requirements for the license. He said they came out of the spin at about 2,000 feet and then went into a flat spin when the motor stalled.

It was apparent that Gages had sighted the grassy field hemmed in on three sides by woods, and attempted a dead stick landing, his cousin said. The craft had approached from the south and nosed over on a hillside at the north end of the clearing.

Passing motorists who witnessed the crash said that the plane circled the field and then plunged downward. They said they did not hear the motor.

Watches Plane Fall.

B. J. Gonssowski, of Bucyrus, traveling towards Mansfield from Galion, was one of the motorists who saw the plane fall.

"I was traveling along rather slowly, watching the plane," he said. "I saw it circle the field twice and then dive to the ground."

Marvin Taylor, a life-long friend of Gages, who lives with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gale, on whose farm the plane crashed, had just arrived home after leaving the pair at the airport.

"I was upstairs when I saw several persons running through the back lot and I knew at once what had happened," Taylor related.

He said he called an ambulance and the coroner and then ran to the scene of the crash.

"The plane was standing on its nose and we had to pull the tail down to get into the tiny cabin. Neither of the men wore parachutes," he said.

Otis Gray, a farmer, who lives on the West Fourth street road a mile north of where the plane crashed, said he saw the ship being stunted at a high altitude while he was doing his chores but that he had paid little attention to it. He was one of the first upon the scene.

News of the tragedy came as a shock to Mansfield flying circles as both men were widely known.

Gages had been flying for 12 years and had more than 1,500 hours to his credit. He received a transport pilot's license more than three years ago and since then had been giving instructions at his airport. He was also rated as an expert parachute jumper.

His hangar at the airport housed five planes, owned by the Gages family All were late model ships

Married Only Recently.

Gages lived in the vicinity of Mansfield all his life He was born on the farm where he lived with his parents. Only three weeks ago he announced his marriage to Miss Irene Kober, daughter of Mr and Mrs. W. C Kober of Bucyrus The couple was married in Cleveland last Oct. 8 They had planned to start housekeeping in one of his father's homes near the airport in a few weeks. Mrs Gages also was a flyer

Crum, who lived with his widowed mother came to Mansfield seven years ago from Huntington, W. Va. He was employed at the Westinghouse plant and had been taking instructions from Gages for the past year He owned a plane which he kept at the airport.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Frances Crum two sisters, Mrs Gustave Rettig of Mansfield and Irene Crum of Gallipolis, who is an aviatrix and holds an altitude record for women in an Aeronica plane, and two brothers, William M and James J Crum, both of Huntington, W Va.

Funeral Friday.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Wappner funeral home with Rev Hayes M Braker, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church officiating The body will be taken to Huntington for burial.

Surviving Gages besides his wife, Irene, are his parents, Mr and Mrs. Paul Gages, sr, two brothers, Lee P. and Paul, jr, both at home, and five sisters, Mrs Samuel J Harden, Mifflin, Mrs Oliver Rinehart of R. D 1 Galion, and Vivian Grace, Vera Leona and Margaret Gages, all at home

Gages' body was removed to the Jones funeral home where services will be held at 2 p m Saturday with Rev. R. A Hall pastor of the Ontario Community church, officiating. Burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery

'DEATH ROW' IN PEN HOUSES 9

Mrs. Hahn, 8 Men Await Dates For March To Chair.

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Nine men and one woman, Mrs Anna Hahn, were in Ohio penitentiary under sentence of death today.

Arrival of Carl Ferritto, 20, Cleveland, sentenced to die June 13 for killing two policemen forced Warden James Woodard to put Ferritto and Robert Snow, 27, Akron, in a cell with double deck bunks.

Thomas B. Williams, 20, Steubenville, convicted of murdering a synagogue caretaker, was expected to be brought here tomorrow.

KIDNAP SEARCH IN STALEMATE

Police Keep "Hands-Off" Policy In Levine Abduction.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Murray Levine received an extension of freedom from police interference today in his attempts to negotiate for the return of his 12-year-old son, Peter, kidnaped two weeks ago for $30,000 ransom.

The decision to extend the police hands-off policy was made at a conference of local police officials.

All efforts to pay the ransom have failed thus far. In his latest telephone call to newspapermen, Levine said in a tired voice:

"All I can say is that there is nothing new."

SOLONS TO HEAR MOONEY TODAY

Imprisoned Labor Leader To Appear Before Legislature.

SACRAMENTO, Calif.— (U.P.) — The California legislature convened today to hear the story of Thomas J. Mooney, who was being brought from San Quentin prison, presumably to deny once more that he was guilty of the preparedness day bombing in San Francisco, for which he was sentenced to life imprisonment 22 years ago.

It was expected to be an occasion for new demonstrations by labor and liberal organizations, which have regarded Mooney's plight as a cause to celebre for many years.

FEELING 'LOW'

Giraffe Has Sore Throat, Zoo Orders Gargling.

CHICAGO —(INS)— Doctors today treated the greatest sore throat in America

It was the seven-foot neck of Isiolo, a giraffe at the Brookfield zoo. It was decided not to wrap her throat in flannel because of engineering difficulties, but zoo officials did resort to gargle treatment, using salt water solutions.

TRUCK KILLS GIRL, 8

SPRINGFIELD—(U.P.)— Margaret Allender, 8, died in a hospital today, two and a half hours after being struck by a truck driven by Pearl Wolfe, 20, of New Carlisle The child ran from behind a traction car.

BALANCE DROPS

County Had $6,497 In General Fund March 1, Auditor Says.

Richland county had a general fund balance of $6,497 on March 1, a reduction of $1,825 since Feb. 1, the monthly financial report of County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe showed today.

General fund expenditures during the month were $25,723 as compared with $23,898 in receipts.

An excess of $197,754 in receipts over disbursements in February boosted the total balance in all funds from $251,072 on Feb. 1 to $458,075 on March 1.

The county had a total of $234,336 in undivided general taxes at the beginning of the month. The report also showed an advance of $67,000 to Mansfield schools from the current real estate tax collection.

TOWNSEND PLEA IN HIGH COURT

Pension Leader Opens Fight to Escape Jail Sentence.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Dr Francis E. Townsend, old age pension advocate, today asked the supreme court to review validity of the 30-day jail sentence imposed on conviction of charges of contempt of a house committee.

Townsend's petition contended that the District of Columbia federal district court, where he was tried, erred in refusing to permit him to introduce certain transcripts of the committee hearings from which he was accused of walking out.

Townsend walked out of the committee's hearing on May 21, 1936, while the committee was questioning him on the Townsend pension plan.

It's Odd

But It's Science.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Look at the barometer before you try to predict an earthquake.

If the barometer is rising, the next quake is likely to be on land. If falling, look to the sea for a shake.

Discovery of the barometer's connection with seismic tremors has just been made in New Zealand by R. C. Hayes. There, for six years, he watched the barometer in connection with earthquakes.

Two hundred quakes showed a direct connection between the seismic disturbances and the barometer, that is, the weight of the air. A rising barometer means the air is growing heavier; falling, that it is getting lighter. Although man cannot tell the changes in weight, they are enormous, ranging within half a pound to the square inch.

Hayes found that earthquakes on land frequently followed a high barometer by about two days. The timing was not so exact in the sub-sea shakes. But more of them happened when the barometer was falling.

There is confirmation for Hayes' discovery in the new super-sensitive seismographs. They register tremors due to changes in atmospheric pressure. These tremors are not earthquakes. But they show it is possible for air pressure to act as a trigger to set off a seismic disturbance.

FILE PROTESTS

Property Owners Complain Against Ditch Assessments.

When a number of Cass township property holders protested yesterday at a ditch hearing at the courthouse, county commissioners continued an assessment hearing on the Dininger ditch to April 6 to permit a re-scheduling of assessments.

Proposed construction of the ditch, which is about one and one-fourth miles long, would cost $1,300, according to County Engineer Howard C. Sword. The cost would be divided among 30 property holders in the area and the county.

The protests were registered by land owners who said their assessments exceeded benefits from the drainage ditch.

CHAPTER XIV

"It doesn't seem possible," he said, when Murray had finished his story. "But as it certainly must have happened as you say, then we must take this warning at face value. But I am not afraid, now that I am forewarned. There are enough of us to protect ourselves against Vasquez gang. I think. You and Jose, Don Ponce and myself, beside my employes. Yes, I think we can do it, now that we know it is coming. I will tell Mercedes as soon as she returns, after which the four of us will get together and do a little planning. But of course I must tell Don Ponce before that; he may have reasons why he will not want to participate in another man's fight."

He rose, and at the same time Don Ponce strolled past the doorway. Don Vincente called him and explained the situation. Don Ponce appeared surprised, incredulous.

"But of course," he hastened to say, "if this is true, you may count on me. I am not a coward. We will fool these rogues."

The big car in which the fake policemen had tried to take Murray Kilbourne and Jose Verdugo for a "ride" stood parked on a dark street near a darker alley in Tijuana.

This car, it may be said in passing, had been duly inspected by the police the preceding night, and while the inspection was in progress, Red Vasquez had appeared to report the theft of that very car. Senor Vasquez was extremely glad to regain his machine, it appeared. It also appeared that he chanced to have with him a box of rather good cigars which his friends, the police, might enjoy, and which they assuredly had earned by recovering his maquina. He would also, it appeared, be delighted if they should find themselves able to capture the men who had stolen it to use for their own nefarious purposes.

The police accepted the cigars, promised to search heartily for the thieves, and, when Vasquez had driven away, whispered to each other again about the man who a few days before had explained to the judge his reason for killing a fellow in the Cafe de Mexico City. Certainly the fellow must have been armed, and trying to draw his pistol when shot by Senor Vasquez, because this was testified to by four witnesses whom Senor Vasquez had introduced. No doubt Senor Vasquez was engaged in matters which were, perhaps, doubtful . . . but then . . . until they became more than doubtful . . . and after all, what have common policemen to do with such men as Senor Vasquez?

Wherefore the big car was waiting. Silently, except for low-voiced conversation between four men who occupied it.

The faint light from the new moon was not sufficient to reveal who these men were, but their voices identified them as Gregorio of the One Ear, Juan Guadalupe, the knife-thrower, Edwardo Avila of the scarred face, and Pedro the Fat.

"What's up, I wonder," said Pedro, shifting his great bulk in the rear seat, which he occupied with Juan Guadalupe and Avila.

"His business, fat one," answered Juan. "Move over, and don't breathe so deeply; you will crush me."

"Sit on my lap, then, little one," replied Pedro. "Else you might get smothered, like some babies do."

"Vasquez should hire a truck when he takes you along," returned Juan.

"Anda baby-buggy would do for you," retorted Pedro.

Gregorio told them to shut up.

"He comes," he announced, and stepped on the starter. The engine caught, and was purring nicely when Red Vasquez reached the car and climbed into the vacant front seat beside Gregorio.

"Rancho La Luz," he said. "And step on it."

The car shot to the corner, turned, raced southward through the side street. Then coming to open country, and the road to Ensenada, Gregorio let it out still farther, and they swept like a whirlwind toward their rendezvous.

"All has been done as ordered?" questioned Vasquez, when they were outside the town.

"All, senor," replied Gregorio, who was Vasquez's chief lieutenant. "Ten men await us this side of La Luz. All armed properly. The machine gun is in the back of the car, with plenty of ammunition. Two trucks await us at the appointed spot near La Luz. All is arranged."

"Buen," approved Vasquez. "It will be a nice surprise for old Don Vicente. But there will be little resistance. The machine gun was really needless. Have you seen that damned American, Senor Murray Kilbourne, today? Or his henchman, Jose Verdugo?"

"No, senor," replied Gregorio. "I have not." Over his shoulder he flung the inquiry back to the others. But their answer was the same as his had been. "Maybe they have been scared off," Gregorio continued. "But I cannot understand what happened last night. Who could the fellow have been who hijacked the car?"

For a while Red Vasques was silent. Then he spoke most unpleasantly.

"I do not know," he said. "But I cannot see how any outsider—outsider—" he emphasized the word, "could have known what was doing. Wherefore—" He paused to light a cigaret, and his companions stirred uneasily. "Wherefore I think that we have some one among us who is not going to live a very great while. Some one who is going to die very suddenly before long. Tomorrow or next day I shall know who it is. And then—" Abruptly he changed the subject.

"I myself saw the American, Kilbourne, and Jose Verdugo driving across the border toward San Diego. I am wondering why none of you also saw them. The American, of course, has money." There was menace in his tone. "But it would not be good money to spend in Mexico, I think. However . . . they are out of our way, for I left a man at the bridge to report their return, if they should return. Faster, Gregorio, faster."

Red Vasquez was right about the departure of Murray and Jose. And they had not re-crossed the bridge. But there is an excellent road eastward to Tecate, where one may cross the border and return to Rancho La Luz without passing through Tijuana. And 90 miles was no trick.

A man stepped into the light thrown by the car's headlights and held up his hand.

Gregorio brought the car to a halt and the man mounted the running-board.

"All set," he said. "A quarter of a mile ahead."

The car started again, and in a few minutes came to a stop as another man appeared in the road. He motioned to the right, and Gregorio turned the machine that way, where he now saw there was a side road running between rows of young eucalyptus. And he stopped, several dark figures materialized and approached the car.

Vasquez and the others got out.

"It is good to be able to breathe again," said Pedro Gordo.

"True enough," assented little Juan Guadalupe. "My ribs are broken."

"The rancho can be seen from here," one of the men told Vasquez. "See, the lights."

Red Vasquez looked, and saw yellow glimmerings which seemed only a few hundred yards away, across a small valley.

"Good. And the others?"

"All ready," said the man who had stopped them.

"Go then and tell them to go ahead, as instructed," commanded Vasquez.

As the man disappeared, Vasquez gave one look around at the men gathered there. Then he said, "Follow me," and started toward the ranch. Behind him came Gregorio, carrying the sub-machine gun. And then the rest, pistols drawn, rifles hanging across their backs.

They crossed the little valley behind the hacienda. Vasquez saw two other small bodies of men moving toward the house. He put a whistle to his lips. It shrilled, cutting the night air like a knife. All three parties of raiders rushed toward their objective. Behind them two trucks, headlights doused, rattled up, stopped. Then their headlights were thrown on, revealing the hacienda clear-cut in white, concealing from those within the building the number and location of their attackers.

The raid of Red Vanquez's gang upon Rancho La Luz was not to prove the surprise to Don Vicente and his people that Vasquez supposed, but a minor and pleasant surprise was theirs.

It was almost dark, and Don Vicente, Murray, Don Ponce and Jose had nearly completed their preparations for the proper reception of the gentlemen from Tijuana, when a car's headlight's flashed down the long road which led to the rancho.

Don Vicente, giving orders to some of his peons in front of the hacienda, saw it first.

"Murray!" he called. "Ven aqui."

"Here, sir," said Murray, coming from the house, rifle in hand.

"Car coming," said Don Vicente. "Only one however."

"Nevertheless," said Murray cocking his Winchester.

Don Vincente moved his hand and another click came.

But suddenly the figure of Jose appeared as a shadow in the car's headlights. A shadow standing with upraised left arm. The right hand held a rifle at hip.

The car slowed to a sudden stop. A man leaned out of the window.

"What the hell's the matter," a voice wanted to know. "Tryin' to get run over?"

Jose made no answer. Merely saluted and stepped aside. The car rushed up, ground gravel and stopped. The man threw open the door, got out.

"Hi, Murray!" he shouted. "Hi, Don Vicente."

"Dad!" cried Murray. "Why, you old rooster!" He rushed forward, to throw his free arm about his father's shoulders. "Where the devil did you come from?"

"Why the artillery, boy?" Charlie Kilbourne wanted to know. "Why the traffic cops?" "What's Don Vicente carrying a gun for?" He strode forward. "Hello, Don Vicente. What's up?"

Don Vicente and Murry told him in a hundred fast-flung words.

HONOR SENIOR HIGH CAGE TEAM

Students Hold 'Pep' Rally Tomorrow as Squad Leaves For District Tourney.

A former Senior high school athletic star and a member of the school faculty will be the speaker at a "pep" rally at 1:45 p. m. tomorrow in the high school auditorium a few hours before the Mansfield basketball team leaves to play Bellevue at the district tournament at Sandusky.

The speakers will be Inwood Smith, former All-American at Ohio State university, and Earl A. Mann, faculty representative on the high school athletic board.

During the rally the tournament squad of 10 members will be introduced to the student body with special recognition being given John Hallabrin and Elmer Dials, senior members.

Music will be furnished by the high school band under the direction of J. Merton Holcombe. Holcombe also will lead the students in the singing of school songs.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Student Representatives Council to create interest among the students in the semi-final games in the district tournament.

The council is arranging for at least two buses to transport the students to Sandusky tomorrow evening.

CITY PREPARES FOR NORTHWEST TERRITORY FETE

Committee Sponsoring Pageant Here to Hold First Meeting Tomorrow.

First steps for arranging for Mansfield's part in the celebration of the sesqui-centennial anniversary of the Northwest territory will be taken tomorrow night when an organization meeting of the celebration committee will be held in the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms, John Correll, chairman, announced today.

A citizens committee will be chosen to assist in the arrangements for staging a pageant here when the ox-team caravan—a counterpart of the original expedition that started from the east 150 years ago—reaches Mansfield May 3.

Expedition Started Dec. 3.

The ox-team caravan, feature spectacle of the celebration, which is recreating the trek of the pioneers into the Northwest territory, of which Ohio was originally a part, started from Massachusetts Dec. 3. Following the trail of the original expedition, it is due to arrive in Marietta on April 7, and continue through other cities in Ohio and four other states—Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin—which were carved out of the Northwest territory.

The caravan will be accompanied by a troupe of trained players, who will depict historical scenes, but the local committee will arrange the program to be given, depicting scenes from local history.

Correll today said he thought it would be appropriate if the Mansfield program were built around the activities of Johnny Appleseed, famous character who spent part of his life in this section of the country, and to whom a monument has been erected in Middle park, and the old blockhouse, which figured in the Indian wars of 1787, and which now stand in South park.

WILL'S LEGALITY UPHELD BY JURY

Verdict Provides Document Be Certified to Probate Court.

A jury verdict establishing the legality of the will of Yadija Stasiak, late of Mansfield, had been returned today in common pleas court.

The will was contested in a suit brought against Atty. Earl A. Nist, as administrator of the estate, and Mrs. Pauline Rachel, Mansfield, step-daughter of Mrs. Stasiak, who was named sole beneficiary. Mrs. Stasiak died in August, 1936. Value of her estate was approximately $3,000. Plaintiffs in the suit were Mrs. Stella Rachel, Mansfield, a niece of Mrs. Stasiak, and a number of other nieces and nephews.

The court verdict requires the plaintiffs to pay court costs totaling $10.30 and provides that the will be certified to probate court as a legal paper.

TALKS WAY INTO PEN FOR YEAR

Embezzler Sentenced After Plea to Get WPA Job, Marry.

PUEBLO, Col.—(U.P.)—Clarence Williams, 24, almost "talked" his way out of a penitentiary sentence. Williams had admitted guilt on an embezzlement charge and was delivering a stirring plea for probation. Judge Harry Leddy was impressed by the prisoner's desire to get a job and repay the money until Williams said he wanted to get a job on WPA and marry a woman with seven children.

"One to two years in the state penitentiary," the judge interrupted. "There are too many on WPA right now."

O. S. U. Band to Visit Mt. Vernon, Galion On Tour

The Ohio State university 90-piece band will begin its annual spring concert tour March 21 at Galion and will visit Mt. Vernon three days later, Thursday, March 24.

The band will present concerts also at Warren, March 22, East Palestine, March 23, and Upper Arlington, March 25.

The university unit appeared in Mansfield on its spring tour in 1936, giving two concerts in the Senior high school auditorium. It will return next year, J. Merton Holcombe, director of the Senior high school band, said today.

SIX BEARS BLOCK TRAIL

SEWARD, Alaska—(U.P.)—E. F. Warwick and his companion, E. E. Clayton, rounded a sharp bend in the trail at Killey river about 25 miles south of Skilak lake on the Alaskan peninsula and came upon what appeared to be a brown bear convention. They said there were six—all big, and all too curious.

Muscular Rheumatic Pains

It takes more than "just a salve" to draw them out. It takes a "counter-irritant" like good old Musterole—soothing, warming, penetrating and helpful in drawing out the local congestion and pain when rubbed on the aching spots.

Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly.

Better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster, Musterole has been used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists'. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild) and Extra Strong.

Bulging Waists Hurting Nation, Says Researcher

DALLAS, Tex.—(U.P.)—Dr. Victor Heiser, for 20 years an associate in research with the Rockefeller Foundation and an authority on tropical diseases, is of the opinion that America's expanding waistline is costing the nation its position of importance in world affairs.

"Americans are becoming overweight and sluggish," Dr. Heiser said. Excess weight is a disease that is threatening our communities."

"We have conquered or can control most of the environmental diseases," he said. "Typhoid fever, yellow fever, smallpox and cholera were all community problems. However, the individual felt no particular responsibility for them. It was a problem for the city health departments."

"Our next big advance must be in dealing with changing the habits of the individual, and as I see it, the country that does that thing first will lead the world."

LAW HITS CHURCHES

FORT WORTH, Tex.—(U.P.)—When the city council passes an anti-noise ordinance, it means it. Six churches were denied a plea to advertise their services through a loud-speaker truck patroling down-town streets.

HOUSE-RAISING ENDURES

GREENLAND, N. H.—(U.P.)—Harry Hanson is thankful that the old New England custom of house-raising still exists. Neighbors helped him build a new home in five weeks after a fire had destroyed the original structure.

COUNTY FLOUTS LAW SINCE '98

Texas Community Says It'll Defy State Laws, Use Own Election Plan.

(By United Press)

JEFFERSON, Tex. — Marion county, which has shown its contempt for conventions on several occasions, has started another political campaign that ignores the laws of the state of Texas.

The rules for conducting elections are laid down by the state legislature, but only 253 of the 254 counties in Texas obey them; Marion county makes its own rules. It has followed its own private system since 1898, and "the citizens' county executive committee" has announced it would do so again.

In the other 253 counties, the first primary will be held on July 23. But "the citizens' county executive committee," blandly ignored this legal date and announced that Marion county would cast its ballots in April.

This defiance of prescribed rules started 40 years ago, when the citizens reached the end of their patience with politicians who elected their men by giving drinking parties for Negro voters. On April 29, 1898, the "citizens' county executive committee" held it. first meeting in the Jefferson Commercial club rooms. The members revolted against the "disgraceful influences, disgusting and grossly immoral practices surrounding the candidacy, campaigns and elections of county and precinct officers of Marion county, which have been so shameful and shocking to the moral sense of all respectable citizens."

PLAN DINNER

PERRYSVILLE—Husbands and recent new members will be honored guests of the Perrysville Women's club dinner next Wednesday evening in the parlors of St. John's church here.

"Conservancy" will be the theme of the evening. A guest speaker and several musical numbers will feature the evening's program.

Mrs. J. F. McClure, assisted by members of the social committee, Mrs. Frieda Hiner, Mrs. Freda Wolfe, Mrs. Mary Stoughton, and Mrs. Marie Covert, will act as hostesses at the dinner.

CLUB'S EDUCATIONAL FUND TO BENEFIT FROM JUNGLE LECTURE

When Mrs. Martin Johnson, noted explorer, lectures at Mansfield high school auditorium Friday afternoon and evening, she will be helping indirectly to send worthy boys and girls in the Mansfield area to college.

Proceeds from the ticket sale for the lectures will go into the University club's educational foundation fund, from which loans are made to needy high school graduates of high scholastic standing, Harold A. Bruce, chairman of the club's educational committee which is sponsoring Mrs. Johnson's appearance here, said.

Adult tickets for the matinee and evening lectures are available from University club members, at Bates' candy shop and Tawse's pharmacy.

Student tickets, good for the matinee lecture at 3:30 p. m. only, are being sold through the schools. Supt. W. L. Miller of Mansfield schools, said all pupils holding tickets will be dismissed at 3 p. m Friday to permit them to attend the lecture Adult tickets are good for either performance.

A native of Kansas where she met her future husband while still in high school, Mrs. Johnson probably has had more thrilling experiences than any other woman explorer.

With her late husband she roamed most of the countries of the globe which promised adventure and opportunities for unusual photography. Johnson died more than a year ago in a California plane crash, in which Mrs. Johnson was severely injured.

Never killing an animal except in self-defense, the Johnsons worked together for nearly 20 years at photographing wild life in Africa, Borneo and the South seas. They have written a number of books and magazine articles and produced half a dozen motion pictures.

Mrs. Johnson will illustrate her lectures here with motion pictures of wild animals and native tribes in Africa and Borneo. Her lecture, entitled "Jungles Calling," has been presented throughout the United States under the sponsorship of educational and civic organizations.

GALION—Russell Glasener of Galion underwent a major operation at the Mansfield General hospital recently.

BUCYRUS GUESTS

BUCYRUS — Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Neff and three young sons of Guadalajara, Mexico, are spending a vacation with the former's brother and sister, Joe and Marion Neff, the latter returning with the party from a two month vacation in the south. Rev. Neff is teaching in the Colegic International.

CLUB MEETS

PERRYSVILLE—Discussion of problems of pre-school children was heard at the March meeting of the Perrysville Mothers' club which met recently at the home of Mrs. Mayme Butler, with Mrs. Myrtle Browning acting as associate hostess.

Among those who appeared on the program were Mrs. Helen Adams, Mrs. Evelyn Mann, and Mrs. Hazel Jackson.

GALION—Mrs. John Findley is suffering with broken ribs and lacerations of the face and legs received in an automobile accident near Medina Saturday. She was brought to her home here Saturday evening.

THURSDAY, MARCH 10, 1938.

Snow White Prosperity lies, with turned-up toes, waiting for the Fairy Prince.

There always has to be some kind of comic relief, and it might as well be Timber Top Charley as somebody with tenderer bark.

Japan is said to have lost half her foreign silk trade, just because a dumb world doesn't understand how much she's doing for China.

Whose Islands?

THE SUDDEN flurry over the ownership of two tiny islands in the Pacific ocean has come partly from the current war scare, but mostly from the development of aviation. None of the powers cared particularly whose flag flew over Canton and Enderbury Islands, so no flag flew there at all. Recently their desirability as way stations along the Pacific air lanes brought up the question of ownership.

It is not disputed that American whalers and sealers were the first to find these islands and put them on the map. A little less than a hundred years ago their group was referred to as "American Polynesia." But they were not settled.

The order has now been given to "colonize" these two dots in the South seas. It will be done technically when a coast guard cutter lands four Hawaiians on each of the islands to establish American sovereignty. This party will encounter a colony of New Zealand weather observers on Canton island, and a dispute may follow.

Not far away are islands over which Japan holds a mandate from the League of Nations. There are a score of other islands in that vicinity which will now be taken seriously. Rival claims of ownership must be investigated and determined by peaceful negotiation. The diplomats must finish a job explorers and adventurers began a long time ago.

"Time for Humility."

IT has taken this recession to make many people realize that our business system, possibly the whole capitalist system, is really sick. When things slump and drag as they have done, in spite of all our recuperative efforts, in this greatest and richest of nations, it is surely time to face facts and make a real job of recovery, instead of fighting about doctors and medicines.

One of the most sensible statements observed lately, on this question, is a newspaper article by John T. Flynn, a liberal economist, in which he says:

"The moment has come for all hands to indulge in a little humility. It is a good time for the President to stop thinking himself a Messiah, and for his supporters to stop thinking that every critic of the New Deal is a public enemy and a Tory. It is a good time for the Hooverites to quit thinking they have the formula because Roosevelt hasn't, and to stop the silly business of calling all who disagree with them Communists. It is an excellent time for the business men to make an end of their fiery hatred of Roosevelt, because after all, when they were running the show, they ended in a grand crash.

"In other words, it is a time for humility, a time for quiet nerves and tempers, and an end of prides and angers. It is a time to sit down as calmly and objectively as possible, in a serious attempt to find out just how the machine works and what can be done to start it up again."

Technocratic Warning.

THE TECHNOCRATS—remember them?—come out of their holes like belated groundhogs and sound another warning to the capitalistic system. A representative of that almost forgotten branch of economic prophecy, Ben H. Williams, who functions as director of Section II, Technocracy, Inc., says in a public address:

"The present money system of the world will break down within the next decade. This is the fifteenth prediction in the name of Technocracy in the last 16 years; the other fourteen have come true."

Most of us are hazy about those other fourteen bulls-eye hits, but it might turn out as Mr. Williams says. Just what he means by "the present money system" isn't very clear; but strange things have happened to gold, silver, banknotes and credit these last few years, and it would be rash for anyone to prophesy what will be used for money in the future.

It seems safe to assume, though, that there will still be money of some kind, to represent wealth and measure the value of goods and services, no matter what it is called. And in America there will also be profit.

Track and Runner.

THE FASTEST mile ever recorded for a human runner was that of Glenn Cunningham, running on Dartmouth college's springy, wooden indoor track. Six runners with generous handicaps dropped out before the finish. The time was 4:04.4, four seconds better than Cunningham's own indoor record and two seconds better than the outdoor mark.

The Dartmouth track coach, commenting on the astonishing feat, later said: "It was the most remarkable race I have ever seen. His performance more than makes good my claim that the Dartmouth track is five seconds faster than any other in the world."

The runner himself said, "The track was marvelous and the conditions were ideal."

Apparently Cunningham could not have done so well on any other track; yet he himself must have been in "top form." There is a moral here which could be applied in other fields of endeavor.

Women Who Do Things.

HIGH up on the list of "women who do things" stands Mrs. Martin Johnson, who comes to Mansfield tomorrow night for a lecture at the high school, under the auspices of the University club.

One cannot question the courage of a woman who faces the discomforts and perils of the African jungle, and there is additional reason to admire Mrs. Johnson for carrying on alone since the untimely death of her explorer-husband in a California airplane crash.

The report that a large number of Mansfielders plan to see and hear Mrs. Johnson tomorrow indicates that many of our citizens do recognize her as one who "does things."

Many are the trials of Russia.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

Now that Prof. Thurman W. Arnold of Yale has accepted the Roosevelt administration's invitation to become assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division (subject to senate confirmation), we may expect thorough-going action. Not that Robert H. Jackson, whom he succeeds, was lax. Jackson, now solicitor general and spoken of as a Democratic presidential candidate, is more of an orator, Arnold more of a student who acts decisively behind the scenes.

Professor Arnold is 47, has been professor of law at Yale since 1931, and is a native of Wyoming. He has served the Roosevelt administration in several special capacities, very successfully. He has soared like a comet through the literary skies recently, his "The Folklore of Capitalism" having undergone a fourth printing.

A FASCINATING BOOK.

"The Folklore of Capitalism" is a fascinating book for laymen. There are statements that stand out with singular clarifying simplicity.

Some of the thoughts given expression in this book that have struck me are:

Return to "free competition"? What "free competition"? "The old days were marked by ruthless suppression of competitors by any means available, including discriminatory freight rates, locally ruinous prices, and any sort of undercover tactics to drive out small competitors. Men like Rockefeller did not hesitate to use devices which were illegal and immoral according to the standards of today."

Today, methods are not so crude. They are even legal.

"Today the corporate practices which most effectively give great organizations their positions of dominance follow, with the greatest filedity, the current moral precepts of what an individual should do.

"The most important among those methods are:

"(1) The manipulation of securities; (2) the pooling of patents; (3) price leadership and control."

From this is may be gathered the course of regulation which Professor Arnold as assistant attorney general will favor.

It probably will be a realistic course, in the belief . . . that nothing much can be done permanently until a strong regulatory bill is passed.

ILLUMINATING COMMENTS

Professor Arnold's chapter headings are delightfully illuminating.

"The Malevolence of Taxation by the Government—in which is discussed the curious myth that permanent public improvements, conservation of resources, utilization of idle labor, and distribution of available goods are a burden on posterity if accomplished by an organization called 'government' which assumes public responsibility."

"In which it is explained how great organizations can be treated as individuals, and the curious ceremonies which attend this way of thinking."

CONTROL

There seems no question that the new assistant attorney general desires control of interstate corporations, even greater control than is provided in the proposed Borah-O'Mahoney licensing bill—a bill that has aroused a storm of corporation objection.

After describing the breakdown and abuses of the anti-trust laws under a changing era, when in reality "the anti-trust laws became the greatest protection to uncontrolled business dictatorships," Professor Arnold makes his case for control through this argument:

". . . neither the public nor the organizers thought of these industrial organizations as 'government.' The trick of personification veiled this obvious fact from their eyes. Since the organizations were persons, they should be treated as if they had free will and moral responsibility. Regulation was bureaucracy and tyranny over individuals.

"Therefore, when corporate abuses were attacked, it was done on the theory that criminal penalties should be invoked rather than control. Senators could always adopt the side of the people on the corporation issue and demand prosecution of the great enterprises under the anti-trust laws. Since they had no direct responsibility for such prosecutions, this method gave them the advantages which go with complete lack of responsibility for results. Theirs was but to point the way. In this manner every scheme for direct control broke to pieces on the great protective rock of the anti-trust laws . . .

"Within the organizations themselves, men were not theoretical. They did not follow economists and lawyers. They used them . . .

"The anti-trust laws remained as a most important symbol. Whenever anyone demanded practical regulation, they formed an effective moral obstacle . . .

". . . the federal anti-trust laws, since the nineties, have stood as a great moral gesture which proves that in a nation of organizations individuals really are supreme: or, if not, they are going to become so very soon through the intervention of the federal government. . . ."

Success of South American Colonizing Doubted

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—The U. S. government is said to be flirting with the idea of encouraging North American farm colonization in promising South American agricultural areas.

It is suggested that, for one thing, no free land remains in this country, with the result that great numbers of folk who ought to be leading rural lives are being forced into our cities, creating unemployment. Secondly, the South American republics have, in spots, large German and Italian populations, making for Nazi and Fascist sentiment. The theory is that North American settlements would counteract this tendency, democratizing our New World neighbors.

And, in a general way, the argument is that such a movement would bind our two western hemispherical continents together, in the face of a mightily unpleasant trend almost everywhere else on earth.

A FALLACY

Not so many years ago, I ran a farm in Argentina, perhaps naturally the richest agricultural realm on this globe, acre for acre. Many newspapermen hope to get back to the land, and I got there. I stayed as long as my money lasted, which wasn't long, and then returned to newspapering. I am cured, as to the Argentine or anywhere.

It is entirely a misconception that plenty of land is available in the vicinity of South America's important centers, where crops can be marketed.

These belts are thickly settled. Tenancy is as prevalent within their limits as in the United States. Their soil is worn pretty thin, and takes a lot of expensive fertilizing. An Iowa tenant would be a sucker to migrate, say, to Santa Fe province, Argentina—and he could do it only as a tenant.

LANDLORD DOMAINS

Around the semi-urban belt there is another belt devoted principally to livestock raising.

This domain is owned by great landlords, whose holdings date back to the days of Spanish acquisition from the Indians. It is divided up into patches of thousands of acres each. These landlords will not sell or lease, under ordinary conditions. They do not desire cultivation. Cattle or sheep suit them better. Such animals are marketable on the hoof, without much artificial transportation. They simply eat grass and propagate. Meanwhile the ranchmen live in Paris, make as much money as they desire, and don't care whether or not they could swell their incomes by more intensive methods.

A WILDERNESS

Then there is a wilderness—the Gran Chaco.

The Chaco has been advertised as the region Paraguay and Bolivia have been fighting over.

In fact, it is a Guarani Indian term, meaning "wilderness."

Mainly it is rich territory, including corners of Argentina, Paraguay, Bolivia and Brazil—cotton and cattle land particularly. But it is completely undeveloped.

HUGE LOSSES

The Chaco, essentially, is the region North Americans are invited to break into. Cattle, crops and oil, maybe!

Well, several attempts have been made to break into it.

"Tex" Rickard made one — to break into the Argentine Chaco, as a cattle venture. He got an Argentine concession, and is reputed to have spent $1,000,000 in attempts to realize on it. I did not know "Tex" personally, but I knew all his foremost lieutenants.

"Alfalfa Bill" Murray tried to break into the Bolivian Chaco. I have heard him tell his story.

Both efforts went flooey. The colonists simply quit and went went home.

* * *

"WE ARE TOO SOFT"

The truth is, we civilized folk cannot survive a sure-enough state of nature.

We are too soft. We have to have telephones, sanitary plumbing, et cetera.

South America can be chewed at only by degrees.

The edge of it may seem edible. The continental interior is not necessarily so digestible.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Guard Freedom of the Press.

By ELIOT JONES
Professor of Transportation and Public Utilities, Stanford U.

IN A LARGE part of the world the agencies of public communication are either controlled by the government or are subject to a certain amount of government censorship and intimidation. This is true of practically all of Asia, half of Europe, and half of South America. No country, it would appear, may regard itself as entirely free from this danger.

In the United States the danger of press censorship now seems remote, but there are certain disquieting signs, such as attacks on the press by the president and a prominent member of his cabinet.

Last December the president, at a press conference, accused a large percentage of the press of inculcating a psychology of fear, which was in large part responsible for the business recession. When asked what the newspapers would gain by fostering fear, he said that was what he had been wondering. It is obvious, of course, that the newspapers have nothing to gain from the prevalence of a fear psychology, and therefore the president's remarks were apparently intended to discredit the press?

In his Jackson day speech last January the president, referring to President Jefferson, said:

"Against him were almost all the newspapers and magazines of the day. And so, to disseminate their policies in every hamlet and town his associates resorted to printing simple leaflets and pamphlets. The handful of printers and editors who helped them were harried and arrested with the full approval of the great papers and magazines of the day. This was the first effort, with the co-operation of the owners of the press, to curb the essential freedom of the press."

This sounds as if the president meant to suggest subtly that the newspapers were trying to hamper him in his dissemination of messages to the people, whereas the fact is that the newspapers, no matter what their general attitude, make a special point of giving space to the president's messages and views, even when his remarks are uncomplimentary to the press.

In December Secretary Ickes said:

"Our press and news agencies are coming more and more under the domination of a handful of corporate publishers." He contended that publishers of newspapers and magazines of news and opinion should refrain from propagandizing, especially if the propaganda creates a false impression with respect to the government. In another speech, later in the same month, he went much further, referring to "certain kept newspapers."

The "kept" newspapers are presumably those opposed to the New Deal. And since most of the newspapers are critical, apparently there is much opposition to the New Deal. But it is absurd to say, as the secretary does, that "a few lords of the press" have almost exclusive control of and censorship over the dissemination of news and ideas. Altogether there are at least 13,000 newspapers in the United States, more than 2,000 of which are dailies. There is thus a large number of independent publications.

Though the aforementioned remarks of the president and Secretary Ickes may not fairly be taken as indicating a desire or intention to censor the press, it should be realized that a necessary preliminary step for any government that has such an objective is to discredit the newspapers and magazines. The people must therefore be on their guard to resist the slightest move toward curtailing the essential freedom of the press.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, March 10, 1918.

Sixteen friends of Herman Ungerer, Bowman street, surprised him on his birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Katherine Reining, 77, Mansfield woman, died while on a visit with relatives in Toledo.

Mrs. S. S. Dew, Sturges avenue, was called to Akron by the death of her sister.

Major and Mrs. W. Scott Pealer and family of Columbus, former Mansfielders, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burneson.

Mary Garden in "Thais" at the Majestic, and Earl Williams in "A Mother's Sin" at the Arris, was the motion picture entertainment.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kipple, 312 East First street.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, March 10, 1933.

Mansfield bank officials went to Columbus to confer with state banking officials to seek permission to reopen on an unrestricted basis.

Attorney Marshall Moore was elected president of the north central Ohio Wittenberg alumni association.

Seventy five couples attended military ball at Armory.

Mrs. Ernest Shafer was removed from General hospital to her home on Sherman avenue.

R. W. Hartman was elected president of Westbrook Country club.

FAIR ENOUGH

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

LOS ANGELES—All this cruel strife between opposing groups of rich writers in Hollywood dates back to a time during the bank holiday in 1933, when a group of moving picture magnates pulled a fast one on the authors.

At that time the contract writers were persuaded to halve their salaries on the plea that if they refused to make this sacrifice, many members of the lower classes in the movie industry would be fired.

Executives also made the noble sacrifice of half their salaries, but a little later the writers discovered that the executives' bonuses were undiminished, and were, in fact, increased by the saving on their literary payroll. The executives were richer than ever.

Pegler

This was a great disillusionment. The authors had taken the magnates' word without demanding access to the books, and they were not only hurt but terribly angry.

The authors formed a union, got back their accustomed scale, and went on to compel other concessions in the way of screen credits, or ballyhoo, and an end to certain forms of brain-pickings. It was no longer possible for someone's precocious nephew to put his name over the work of an obscure hireling toiling in a bleak and lonely cell.

NEPOTISM NOT WHITE HOUSE MONOPOLY

Nepotism it should be known, is not a White House monopoly, and there are relationships in Hollywood which make it possible for a family reunion to achieve the ends of conspiracy without affront to the Sherman law. It would be a terrible thing, indeed, if a group of relatives and in-laws couldn't have a family dinner or poker game without someone present from the Department of Justice to see that business was not discussed.

One demand which did fail, however, would have given the writers the right to complete "artistic integrity," which is a resounding phrase meaning the opposite of "don't kid yourself." A lot of rewrite men, reporters, sports men and copy readers and one-book novelists wanted it understood that their work must not be changed at all, so that their dramas should reach their public as they had conceived them in their souls.

That one was out quickly and has now been forgotten, but, considered in relation to the literary artistry of the standard housewife drama of the screen, it shows what can happen to a man's sense of proportion here.

In the meantime, a bill has appeared no bigger than a man's hand which will require all distributors to furnish the exhibitors complete, unerring descriptions of all plays, under penalty of a fine of not more than $5,000 and one year in prison for each offense.

PUTS PRODUCERS ON SPOT AGAIN

This is a new one, placing the unhappy producer at the mercy of the man hired to write the synopsis, who might be just cad enough, with his sense of old wrongs and a bred-in-the-bone boss-hatred, to drop in a trick word falsely describing the mood or dialog and send the boss to the chain gang or the rock pile for no real fault of his own.

How would the boss know the difference between "ingenious" and "ingenuous" or "militate" and "mitigate" or "flaunt" and "flout"? And how can he keep subversive propaganda off the screen too subtle for his own perception but not for that of the D. A. R. with smart and wealthy Stalinites conspiring on his own lot to speed the revolution?

Once more in Hollywood the terrible whisper is heard that the party is over and that anyone with a dollar ought to save it because the European markets are shot and the exhibitors here at home have to run gambling games and give away groceries to lure the customers in.

But the rich writers seem unimpressed.

"Listen," goes the standard approach of the hoteyed crusaders for human rights, "out here values are different. Now I get $1,750 a week, but wait till I tell you why we must have a union to protect ourselves."

Let's Look Around

Around the Corner to Early History.

—By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

NEW ORLEANS, La. — Other cities, large and small, have their own peculiar charm, but here in New Orleans there is such a wealth of variety that it did not seem strange to see the name of a visitor from Bagdad, of Arabian Nights fame, among those who registered today at the Cabildo, the old Spanish structure in which formalities connected with the Louisiana Purchase were completed in 1803.

Let those who wish to share in the revelry of America's most notable annual carnival, the Mardi Gras, time their visit to the period immediately preceding the start of the Lenten season each year—others will prefer, as we are doing, to see New Orleans in normal conditions, a great modern city of a half-million population, in which a few minutes walk carries us back to surroundings typical of a century and two centuries ago, the years following 1718 when New Orleans was established as a small French settlement.

LOOKING down onto broad Canal street from a window high up in the Roosevelt hotel, and in the midst of a thriving modern business district, there is nothing to indicate that the turning of a corner will take you into what is essentially an entirely different world—a world in which the habits and customs still savor of the early French and Spanish domination that continued until little more than a century ago when the United States paid Napoleon $15,000,000 for the entire Louisiana territory, which has since become all or part of 17 states.

Were it only to look through the Vieux Carre, known as the French quarter, visitors would be well repaid for making a trip to New Orleans—although there are many things of interest to be seen here, entirely aside from this survival of the times and discovery and conquest.

TURNING from Canal street, from its width of 171 feet from curb to curb, into narrow Chartres, attention is first attracted by the many small shops now devoted largely to the display and sale of antiques and souvenirs but once serving as the regular merchandising marts of the mixed French and Spanish population of the Quarter.

With their characteristic trellised balconies, each having its lace-like iron grill as a protective railing, these houses reflect both the French and Spanish architectural influence, sometimes merging into a Creole conglomerate.

Artists find these old homes and their secluded court yards give rich opportunities for sketching and painting, with the result that many of the scenes have been perpetuated on canvas and in reproductions, for which there is constant demand.

ONLY a little distance out Chartres street is the old building in which Jean Lafitte and his brother Pierre operated a blacksmith shop as a blind for their piracy and smuggling operations, the romantic version of Jean's activities having been portrayed in "The Buccaneer," recently shown in Mansfield.

Further down the street we reach the Cabildo and the Presbytery, now state museums housing rich collections of early-day relics and art treasures. Between these is historic St. Louis Cathedral, built in 1794 under the Spanish regime and still attracting many week-day visitors, with capacity congregations at Sunday services.

Across Chartres street from these buildings is Jackson Square, with an imposing equestrian statue of General Jackson, intended to commemorate his notable victory in the Battle of New Orleans, which marked the end of the War of 1812.

From here are seen the expansive apartment houses which the wealthy young widow, Baroness Pontalba built in 1849 as a gesture of protest after learning of the difficulty encountered by her countrymen in securing living quarters at reasonable rental.

WALKING along Royal street you stop for a moment at the home where Adelina Patti, the famous Italian opera singer, lived for a time while making her American debut at the age of 17.

It was something of a surprise to find that E. H. Sothern, distinguished Shakesperean actor, was born in a modest home on Bienville street, and that Robert Edeson, another notable actor, was born on nearby Toulouse street.

In fact this entire section fairly reeks with historic and romantic associations—so much so that it takes several walks to satisfy even moderate curiosity.

COMING into New Orleans from Baton Rouge, it was the perfectly natural thing to swing a little out of our way in order to cross the Mississippi river on the new Huey P. Long bridge, a $13,000,000 structure built to accommodate railroad and vehicular traffic. This bridge, with its approaches, is almost four and a half miles long and is termed the most magnificent structure spanning the Mississippi.

While charge is made to railroads using the bridge, this is a "free bridge" for use of motor cars, it having been among Huey Long's aspirations to banish toll bridges from Louisiana highways—a movement which several other southern states might do well to follow.

THE idea in New Orleans seems to be that visitors here for a brief stay should visit at least a few of the well-known restaurants, rather than confining patronage to some single one of them. So we'd better be looking around at the eating places.

KNIGHT AND CASTLE

Why do you love the most of all
The picture of the knight
Who rides to that far hill topped by
A castle's splendid might?

Is not the knight your hopes, the hill
A spot you must subdue
To reach your castle? Is this not
Symbolical to you,

This knight and castle? As we go
Our ways, strange as it seems,
We love the most of all those things
That tell us of our dreams.

ICKES REVEALS 'PLOT' REQUEST ON TVA POWER

Says Utility Head Asked PWA Chief to 'Conspire' In Move to Snag Work on Projects.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Secretary Ickes made public a letter today in which he charged Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern, with asking the public works administration to "conspire" with him to hold up a $150,000,000 WPA-municipal power project in the Tennessee valley.

Ickes' letter, addressed to Mayor Watkins Overton of Memphis, Tenn., was in reply to a telegram from the mayor asking whether PWA would recommend delay in construction of electric distribution systems.

Sought Stop Order.

The mayor noted that Willkie, in provisionally accepting an invitation from Director David E. Lilienthal to meet TVA officials in Chattanooga on March 15, said he would co-operate only if the PWA-municipal power program were brought to a "standstill" in the meantime.

Lilenthal proposed the Chattanooga conference for a discussion of purchase by TVA and localities of private power systems.

Ickes assured Overton PWA would carry out its contract for $61,225,544 of loans and $38,412,408 of grants made on 61 projects in 23 states unless the municipalities, themselves, wished to delay their projects.

Otherwise he said PWA money would go forward as arranged.

Meanwhile Senator Norris (Ind., Neb.) agreed to support a congressional inquiry into the Tennessee valley authority, providing none of its opponents is appointed to the investigating committee.

Norris, known as the "father of the TVA," heretofore has demanded that the federal trade commission conduct any hearing on the policies which have created disputes among the agency's three directors.

"This investigation ought to be made by persons who want to see the TVA succeed, but want to be sure there are no irregularities in it," he said.

Senators Bridges (R., N. H.) and King (D., Utah) had requested the congressional inquiry.

GIVE PROGRAM

BUTLER—Seven Butler women, who are members of the Bellville Music club, will present the "Italian Night" program before the Bellville club Friday evening in the Bellville school auditorium.

The meeting regularly scheduled for Thursday night was changed to Friday night because of the Butler community basketball banquet on Thursday evening.

The Butler women who will appear on the program at Bellville are Mrs. Robert Cover, Mrs. Howard Swank, Mrs. Max Peoples, Mrs. J. A. Reed, Mrs. H. T. Wintermute, Mrs. Nealy Severson and Mrs. Austin Spayde.

COUPLE HONORED

BUTLER — Announcement of the recent marriage of Miss Marian Miller and Paul Farst, both popular Butler young people, was announced at a family dinner held Sunday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Miller.

The wedding took place at Paris, Ky., on November 23, 1937.

The bride was a member of the 1937 graduating class of Butler high school. Recently she completed a course of training in the Betty Jean school of beauty culture in Mansfield.

The groom, who is also a graduate of Butler high school, is employed by the Nichols baking company in Mansfield.

WED 50 YEARS

BUCYRUS—A family dinner at noon and open house from 3 to 9 o'clock will mark the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hershberger to be observed at their home, 907 North Sandusky avenue, Sunday.

The Hershbergers have lived in Bucyrus since their retirement from their farm in Holmes township twenty years ago.

Assisting in the anniversary plans are the couple's four daughters, Mrs. E. J. Lust, Mrs. S. G. Angene, Mrs. J. H. Malcolm, and Cora Hershberger, all of Bucyrus.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—William Hobbs of Hamilton, under sentence to die in the electric chair for the murder of Patrolman Arthur Sponsel last April, was granted an indefinite stay of execution by the Ohio supreme court today when it agreed to review his conviction.

HELP 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 Miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 Miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

100 YEARS OLD

BUCYRUS—Born a century ago in slavery in southern Georgia, Mrs. Eliza Houston observed her 100th birthday Tuesday at her home in Tiro, east of here.

The aged woman, a devout Bible student, lived in slavery until she was freed following the war. She has lived in Tiro with her daughter, Mrs. Mollie Craft and a son, William Barnett, since 1925.

DRAW UP GIRL SCOUT PROGRAM

Leaders of Mansfield Council Confer on Summer Plans With Regional Head.

Plans for working out the summer program for Mansfield Girl Scouts were under way today as the result of conferences here between Miss Ruth Schroeder, in charge of the regional office at Cleveland, and the Girl Scout council, standing committees and leaders.

The organization was admitted as an agency of the Community Fund last week, and in the future will operate with funds from that source. Their budget for the year was set at slightly under $1,000.

At a recent meeting of the council Mrs. Roger Black, who has served as temporary chairman, was elected commissioner of council. Others named were Mrs. George V. Smith, first deputy commissioner; Mrs. William Layton, secretary, and Mrs. John W. Graham, treasurer.

Seven standing committees and their chairmen were announced. They are: program, Mrs. Marshall Moore; training, Mrs. Howard Keene; organization, Mrs. Howard Miller; membership, Mrs. C. H. Henkel; finance, Mrs. Charles G. Brown; camping and outdoor activities, Mrs. J. C. Gorman, and public relations, Miss Katharine Hartman.

Serving as advisors to various committees are Dr. R. D. Campbell, Dr. K. E. Buhr and Rev. E. G. Corwin. Mrs. R. M. Gage is representative of the troop leaders on the council.

At present there are eight troops embracing 146 Girl Scouts in Mansfield.

Included on the program were a play, "Common Clay;" pantomine in one act, "Duchess Bounces In;" specialty dances and music b tyhe German band. The second program will be staged Wednesday.

HEADS BOARD

BUCYRUS — Ross Black was elected chairman of the Crawford county board of elections, succeeding George S. Beck, Galion, retiring member, at the re-organization meeting held Tuesday night at the courthouse.

Edwin S. Lewis was re-employed as clerk of the board.

The board is now comprised of Black, Bert Wilson, new member of Galion, and George Mason, Galion, and W. H. Songer, Sulphur Springs.

A Farmer's Diary

March 9.

ON A knoll across from us stands our neighbor's gray stone house. It is built in rambling style, with a garage at the rear and a generous wide porch. This gives an appearance of size, though it is only six rooms. With its red roof, evergreens, and curving driveway, it nestles into the landscape as though it had always been there—yet we know that it is only two years old.

Our neighbor is a foreman in one of the town's oldest manufacturing plants. During the depression, he purchased four acres across the road and built a brick garage, where he lived with his family for two winters. During that time we frequently saw him hauling stones on his wheelbarrow, or carrying them from his car, and piling them near at hand. By the time his collection was complete, the pile was huge, and contained many interesting specimens — one of them a black and red meteorite.

Then work on the house began. One versatile workman did the whole job, working at it an entire summer. The basement and the first floor walls were made of cement blocks, which were then veneered with stone. Broken by the stone hammer, the rocks revealed hidden beauties. They shaded through all the colors—yellow and brown, gray and green, blue and white, black and red. Blended and interfused, they made a background of warmth and restfulness wherever they were used. The huge rockhewn chimney at the end of the living room, with its fire of smoldering logs, gave a heart of warmth to the finished dwelling.

I like to look across the road at night, and see the cozy lighted windows, and my neighbor's graying head, with his pipe and his evening paper. There is something very satisfying about a field stone house.

$4,000 BLAZE DESTROYS HOME

10-Room Structure Burns as Firemen Stage Futile Fight to Save Building.

ASHLAND—Fire of undetermined origin yesterday destroyed the brick farm house of W. D. Otter, retired hotel keeper, in Milton township just west of Ashland off route 42, after efforts of Ashland firemen failed to check the flames. The loss was placed at $4,000.

The fire, discovered about 8 a. m. Wednesday had gained too much headway before firemen responded with the community truck.

Before the fire destroyed the structure, and left only scorched brick walls standing, some of the household goods in the lower floor were saved, but most of the household goods in the second story were destroyed.

It was also reported that the fire destroyed many farm implements and canned goods which were stored in the basement.

Loss to the ten-room structure was partially covered by insurance. No estimate as to the loss to household goods was given.

DISCUSS PLANS

SHELBY—Plans for the coming year were discussed Wednesday night at a meeting of the board of directors of the Shelby Better Business club at the city hall.

Ralph Bly, newly elected president, presided at the session with action taken to send one student from the high school to the Legion boys' camp next summer. Selection of the student will be made by O. H. Schaaf, principal of the high school, from the junior class.

NAMED TO O. S. U. STAFF

ASHLAND—Dr. Mary Auten, associate professor of Biology at Ashland college, has been appointed to the staff of Ohio State university for the coming summer, it was announced here by university officials. Dr. Auten will serve as research librarian at the Franz Theodore Stone laboratory maintained by the university at Put-in-Bay. She occupied this same position during the summer of 1937.

SUBSTITUTE TAX BILL SOUGHT BY NEW DEAL AIDS

Hope Fades For Enactment of 'Family' Corporation Levy, Administration Goal.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A frantic search for new revenue occupied administration leaders in congress today, because they held little hope of persuading the house to restore to the tax bill a deleted levy on closely-held corporations.

They decided to call for another vote on the proposal, despite their general pessimism that it merely would reaffirm the 180 to 124 margin by which the tax was blue-pencilled yesterday.

Democratic members of the house ways and means committee decided not to recommend substitute levies to offset the estimated $30,000,000 to $45,000,000 revenue loss.

Leave It to House.

They declared that since the entire house had discarded the so-called "1B" tax, it should assume the responsibility for raising more funds or should turn the task over to the senate.

Representative Robertson (D-Va) proposed raising the federal liquor tax from $2 to $2.25 a gallon. He said the increase would produce $35,000,000.

Representative Flannery (D-Pa) suggested a 1-cent-a-gallon tax on fuel oil. The yield was estimated at as high as $175,000,000.

Virtually all the 90 Republicans and as many Democrats teamed up to eliminate the "1B" tax and give the administration its first major defeat in the current seassion.

House members declined to heed an assertion by Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the ways and means committee, that deletion of "1B," might lead to a presidential veto.

Representative Vinson (D-Ky) one of the bill's authors, said the president was "unequivocally and wholeheartedly" in favor of removing what the Kentuckian called a discrimination in existing law in favor of closely-held and against widely-held corporations.

Opponents said it would penalize legitimate business in an attempt to prevent tax avoidance by a few individuals. Advocates said it was essential in establishing an equitable tax system.

HANGS SELF IN JAIL

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Funeral arrangements were made today for Malcolm Simpson, 18, colored, who committed suicide by hanging himself in his county jail cell. Simpson, according to Coroner Dr. Edward E. Smith, had threatened to kill himself on numerous occasions.

Ex-Vaudeville Dancer Plunges 8 Floors From Hotel.

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Lee Willmott, 40, former vaudeville dancer and comedian, was dead here today—a suicide.

Police reported he had leaped to his death from the eighth floor of an office building. Mildred Willmott, his divorced wife, said that Willmott could not find work.

SHOOT BOOKED

Galion to Be Host to Indoor Rifle, Pistol Matches.

GALION — The annual indoor rifle tournament of the Crawford County Rifle and Pistol association has been slated for Friday and Saturday, March 11 and 12, at the Galion armory.

There are now 81 members on the rolls of the association who are expected to take part in the tournament.

The tournament will end the current indoor shooting program of the association and will afford an opportunity for all the members of the affiliated clubs to get together to determine the indoor championship.

Trophies will be awarded to the winning team and to the winning individual with medals for second and third places.

LODGE GUESTS

Mansfield Eagles Present at Meeting of Galion Aerie.

GALION — Visitors from the Mansfield aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles were present at the regular meeting of the Galion aerie Wednesday night. Worthy President Creedman of Mansfield, and the Worthy Secretary, A. J. Egglesburg of the Mansfield aerie, gave short talks.

The membership campaign committee handed in four more applications, bringing the total initiation of new members June, 1937, to 84. This completes the quota for the year for the local aerie.

Announcement was made that a number of members from the local aerie plan to attend the district initiation at Ashland Friday night.

The secretary's class will be initiated on April 13, it was announced. Leo Yochem, entertainment chairman, announced that a special program will be presented next Wednesday night. Lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

SUES FOR DIVORCE

ASHLAND—Action for divorce has been filed in common pleas court here by Howard Clark against Evelyn Clark, in which the defendant is charged with gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. The couple was married March 31, 1937.

TRUCK DRIVER FATALLY HURT IN ODD MISHAP

Dies After Rim Strikes Him While Changing Tire Near Bucyrus Building.

BUCYRUS—Struck on the left temple by a high compression rim on a tire which he was changing caused injuries resulting in the death here Wednesday of Alfred Ritter, 21, LaCrosse, Wisc., truck driver for the Armour Packing company.

Ritter died in City hospital Wednesday afternoon, 40 minutes after the accident occurred. He was removed to the hospital in a semi-conscious condition by fellow employes at the Armour branch building on North Sandusky avenue, where the accident occurred.

The victim was thrown 20 feet across the garage by the impact of the blow which cut a deep gash on his temple. Hospital attaches reported that his death was possibly due to a fracture of the skull, although no x-ray was made.

Relatives at LaCrosse will arrive today to take charge of the body.

Survivors include the young man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ritter of LaCrosse.

GUESTS OF LEGION

BUCYRUS—Two hundred members of American Legion posts in Crawford county were guests of Col. Crawford post at the Legion home Wednesday night when Sam Drurrer of Galion addressed the group on the soldiers' and sailors' relief aid.

Among the visiting officers were "Mud" Gardner of Mansfield, Fifty district commander, Dr. K. C. Kuntz of Fremont; vice commander of the district and Past State Commander Kanode of Galion.

County Commander P. F. Frye of Crestline, presided.

French Premier Resigns as Parliament Refuses New Economic Authority.

$400,000,000 due to vast armaments expenditures.

Weakness of the franc, he said, was "only transitory."

Opposition of socialists, who had given him support in parliament, was the immediate cause of his resignation.

The retiring premier and his ministers left the chamber abruptly at the close of his brief speech to hand their formal resignations to President Lebrun.

The chamber president, Edouard Herriot, suspended the session before Albert Serol, president of the socialist group, could answer Chautemps.

The rising political confusion was evidenced by a skirmish near the Champs Elysees where several were injured in a clash between rival nationalists, members of Col. Grancois de la Rocque's French Social party and of Louis Marin's Republican federation.

Delegations of workers thronged the premier's Matignon palace, presenting petitions for continuance of social reforms.

Lucas Gets Chance To Use Fire Siren But Blaze Fizzles

LUCAS—For the first time since its installation several months ago, the Lucas fire siren had its chance to "sound off" Tuesday when neighbors saw clouds of smoke about the buildings at the William Baer home west of here.

Notified of the smoke, Fire Chief Dale Peterson called out the local fire department with the siren.

Busy with some spring stubble-burning in a field near his farm buildings, Mr. Baer was quite surprised when the Lucas fire-fighting equipment dashed in to save his home from destruction.

RITES ARE HELD

BUCYRUS — Funeral services were held this afternoon at the Wise funeral home for Nola Mae Woods, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Woods of Holmes township. The child died Tuesday following an illness of more than one year. Burial was made in the Brokensword cemetery.

Surviving with the parents are three brothers, James, Melvin and Charles, and one sister, Marie, all at home.

The family came to Crawford county from Tennessee six months ago.

the front so rapidly that Scheibel, who was working in his office near the back, said he was barely able to get out before the flames reached into the room.

Building In Flames.

"I heard a crackling noise," he said, "and when I looked up I saw smoke coming in at the top of the room. When I ran out of the office the flames were all over the back of the building."

He said two gas burners were lit at the rear of the building, one in a heater and the other under a boiler, and expressed the belief that the fire may have started from one of them.

Seeburger said he would examine the building this afternoon in an attempt to determine the cause.

Neither the City Loan company office north of the Brooks store nor the Golden-Russell store to the south was damaged.

Scheibel had managed the store for only two weeks, but had been a collector in this section for the Brooks organization for the past eight months.

J. W. Rae, Ravenna, general manager of the Brooks chain of stores, arrived in the city this morning, but at noon had not placed an estimate of the loss.

Scheibel said attempts would be made to obtain the former Batson Furniture store headquarters just north of the Brooks store for temporary business rooms. The Brooks chain operates credit stores throughout the middlewest and has nine stores in Ohio.

The city's other major fire in the "epidemic" of the last few days caused $7,500 damage Tuesday night to the Hughes Supply company warehouse, 128 West Sixth street.

A fire in a garage at the H. S. Jones home, 81 Parkwood boulevard, late yesterday, caused damage estimated at $100.

A fire which started on the roof of the home of Mrs. Nellie Brooks, 9 Wise avenue, damaged the attic of the house this morning, Chief Seeburger said.

ASHLAND HOST TO OFFICIALS

Mitchell Presides at Session of Northcentral Association.

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the Richland county board of commissioners; County Engineer Howard C. Sword and County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe were in Ashland today for a luncheon meeting of the Northcentral Ohio Auditors, Commissioners and Engineers association.

The session, first to be held by the county officials' organization since November, was in charge of Mitchell, who was elected president at the last meeting.

Ferd Becker, of Wapakoneta, special accountant for the state tax commission, was to be the speaker.

COURSE CLOSES

BUCYRUS — C. M. Ferguson, poultry specialist of Ohio State university, conducted the discussions on poultry diseases, at the last of a series of poultry school sessions held in the county during the last several weeks. The session was held at the courthouse Tuesday night through the co-operation of the County Agricultural Agent Russell L. Miller.

me and said he would be in Detroit," Tremper said.

"He talked about the compressor, campaign contributions, the Davey Tree company, and I think he said something then about a job."

McGill asked him further concerning his reference to "campaign contributions."

"He put up a proposition and wanted a $10,000 contribution," Tremper said. "I told him the company didn't make such contributions."

Tremper said that at future meetings Bradley asked again for a contribution, but on each occasion was turned down, and then he asked for a job with salary and commission.

"I told him he'd better look elsewhere for a job," Tremper said.

Bought Compressors.

Later Tremper met with Paul Davey, the governor's brother, and subsequently the Davey air compressor was placed in the General Motors truck sales manual, Tremper said.

At the time of the conferences with Bradley, Tremper was a representative of the General Motors Truck & Coach Corporation's Fleet Division in Pontiac, he said. He now is midwest regional for the company in Chicago.

Tremper's testimony was given after an argument over admission of the transcript of Bradley's testimony before the senate committee. After a short discussion, attorneys for both sides agreed to accept the transcript as a true transcript of Bradley's testimony.

Dwight L. Matchett, clerk of the Ohio senate, was the first witness called. He identified the transcript, which he said was filed at his office two days ago by Senator Verner Metcalf, member of the investigating committee.

Governor Davey and Bradley ignored each other at the hearing in the crowded courtroom of Municipal Judge Burt W. Griffin. The governor was accompanied by his brother and escorted by two uniformed state highway patrolmen.

Davey was expected to take the witness stand this afternoon at the hearing, which is for the purpose of determining whether the case should be presented to the county grand jury.

Prohibits Sunday Sale of 3.2 Beer In Millersburg

MILLERSBURG—Sale of 3.2 beer is prohibited in the village of Millersburg at any time on Sunday as a result of recent action of council in amending an ordinance regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors and alcoholic beverages. Three of the four places where 3.2 beer has been sold on Sunday wanted council to make it prohibitive to sell on Sunday.

Council washed its hands of regulating opening and closing hours of local barber shops, fixing a license fee and setting a fine for violation, when they killed a petition presented by several barbers. Previous to the action on it, council heard opinions for and against the petition from the barbers who were all present at the meeting. The petition was before council before but was voted down because of irregularities.

plane could have gotten out of control of his son who was a veteran pilot and had more than 1,500 hours to his credit. "Something must have happened to the controls of the ship, a cable might have snapped or the stick jammed, to have caused the crash," he said.

"Glenn had stunted for years and I'm sure the crash was no fault of his."

"See here, a picture of him taken several years ago when on an exhibition tour doing stuning." He gently handed over a photo showing a pilot about to enter a ship. He was dressed in a flying suit helmet and goggles and a parachute, and had a broad smile on his face. The smile that all friends of the Gages knew—and there were many of them.

Plenty of Confidence.

Why didn't Glenn have a parachute yesterday?

"That's easily answered," the grizzled veteran of the soil replied. "He had confidence in himself and his ship and he wasn't putting on a stunt show yesterday.

"You know," he went on, "Paul, jr., here has been taking lessons from Glenn and was waiting until his 12th birthday Saturday so he could take his test for a private pilot's license. I don't know whether he will want to go ahead now with his plans to fly or not."

Paul Jr., sat on a davenport, his eyes on a photograph of Glenn and the huge plane in the background, never murmuring a word. But he had a determined look on his face as much as to say—"I'll carry on because that's what my brother would want me to do."

Glenn's mother also talked about her son, bravely holding back the tears. She told how her son had studied flying from books that he continually pored over during the evenings after he left school.

Glenn's other brothers and sisters were also there and dry-eyed even in the face of death, talked freely about their flying trips around the country with him.

The young Mrs. Gages wasn't there. She was in Bucyrus when her husband crashed to his death, and came to Mansfield immediately, returning to Bucyrus later in the evening to be with her mother, who is seriously ill.

There was a photograph of Glenn's wife there, too—the wife that he had not told his parents about until three weeks ago, although the couple had married last fall.

But the elder Gages were happy in their son's happiness and Gage said he had already made plans to have one of his homes near the airport dressed up so the young couple could "go to housekeeping."

What about the airport? They'll keep that and if possible get someone else to manage it. It wouldn't seem like home with the flying field and the planes gone. Yes, the Gages will continue flying—for Glenn.

WIN HONORS

BUTLER—A squad of six vocational agriculture students from the Butler schools won twelfth place in a state-wide livestock judging contest held at Columbus Saturday, according to D. T. Friday, local agriculture instructor.

The Butler team, competing with representatives from more than 50 other high schools in the state, scored a total of 1,056 points out of a possible 1,200, and only 65 points behind the winning squad.

Members of the Butler team were Leon Snyder, Derald Darling, Floyd McFarland, Leonard Burkepile, Raymond Swendal, and Stanley Green.

RITES FRIDAY

Henry Pregizer, Killed In Detroit Plant Mishap.

GALION—Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p. m. in Toledo for Henry Pregizer, 56, of 922 Eversham avenue, Toledo.

Mr. Pregizer was a brother of Mrs. Ezra Hoard of Galion. He was killed while at work in Detroit, Tuesday. He was employed as conductor on the Michigan Central railroad, running from Toledo to Detroit. He had been connected with the railroad for 30 years. Details of the accident were not learned here Wednesday.

He is survived by his widow and one son, Robert of Toledo; his mother and a brother in Detroit, and his sister of Galion.

He was well known in Galion, Crestline and Marion.

INSURANCE FIRM HEADS RENAMED

All Officers of Lumbermens Re-elected; Assets and Surpluses Increase.

Officers and three directors of the Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company were re-elected yesterday when directors and stockholders held their annual meetings at the home office on Lumbermens Heights.

Charles H. Keating was re-elected president and general manager; Harry S. Black, vice president, and E. S. Nail was returned to the chairmanship of the board.

Directors re-elected were Nail, C. A. Hubbard, and H. E. Stone, all for three-year terms.

Appointive officers renamed were W. H. G. Kegg, secretary; Dwight P. Smith, treasurer and assistant secretary; Scott F. Coffin, assistant secretary, and Charles E. Nail, assistant secretary and assistant general manager.

Officials reported that the company had a satisfactory year in 1937, with both assets and surpluses showing increases. The policyholders' surplus at the end of the year was $1,000,000, and when special and voluntary reserves are added, the surplus amounts to $1,128,000, the report said.

Among the out-of-town directors and guests who attended the annual meeting were C. A. Hubbard, Marysville, Ind.; R. H. Campbell, Toledo; P. P. Parker, Findlay; C. P. Hagenmeyer, Cincinnati; F. M. Torrence, Xenia; H. E. Stone, Boston; R. S. Borderwell, Boston; I. G. Saltmarsh, Indianapolis, and H. J. Pelstring, Philadelphia.

Discovers $15,000 Stradivarius In Attic Junk Pile

SEATTLE, Wash.—(INS)—Nancy Brengan, 9-year-old Seattle girl, has a $15,000 Stradivarius violin found in an attic junk heap.

When an elderly neighbor moved, she found the old violin and presented it to Nancy, who is musically inclined.

Her uncle, Frank Underhill, had it restrung, and found that it had an unusual tone. Closer examination showed the Lation inscription inside "Faciet Anno 1713, Antonius Straduarius, Cremonsis."

The violin was compared with an authentic "strad" owned by E. B. Demig, Bellingham, Wash., capitalist, and found to be almost identical. The inscription was the same.

In both the inscription was added in more recent years, Underhill said, as none of the violins of the famed Italian craftsman bear his authentic signature.

However, Applicant or Police Job Gives Wrong Answer.

EL PASO, Tex.—(UP)—The city civil service commission was examining candidates for places on the police force. An applicant was asked: "If you were by yourself in a police car, and were pursued by a desperate gang of criminals in another car doing 40 miles an hour on a lonely road, what would you do?"

"Fifty," the prospective cop replied.

Book of the Week

"ACTION AT AQUILA." By Henry Allen; (Farrar & Rinehart: $2.50).

"ANTHONY ADVERSE" is just passing the 900,000 mark in sales, in this country alone. It just has been translated into French, the tenth translation so far, if memory serves. The book is an American institution.

Shortly after the excitement which followed "Anthony's" launching nearly five years ago Allen began a new novel. It was to be set in the Cherry Valley of New York, and was to be another long novel. But it is yet to be completed, because before its author was well into the center of it, he became obsessed with another idea, which grew out of the Civil war and was an embodiment of a good many ideas Allen has had since his own experience in what we used to call the "World war."

The Civil war novel is published today as "Action at Aquila." It is comparatively short, only 120,000 words, and these used with greater economy than was Allen's habit in "Anthony." The setting, too, is comparatively concentrated — the Shenandoah Valley, and the borders of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. Although there is rather a forbidding cast of characters supplied by the author, it is a waste of time to read it, for the chief people are few, and one is not likely to confuse them.

Mr. Allen's story is quite simple—a Union colonel is forced to burn the home of a Southern officer and with it the body of its owner. A little later he finds and befriends the widow and her family—though she does not know she is a widow, and he cannot bring himself to tell her. There is an "action" at Aquila which rearranges summarily the lives of some dozens of people; now it is the widow who cares for the wounded colonel, and soon love replaces pity and there is an end.

Mr. Allen has explored most of the human relationships that can grow out of war, even young love. War itself he writes about as senseless conflict and actual death. His people think. An army sweeps by, and Allen's eyes are on the sweepings, not the broom. It is a fine novel, one to be remembered.

OVERSEA ROAD SOON TO LINK FLORIDA KEYS

Key West and Mainland to Be Joined by Newly Constructed Concrete Highway.

(By United Press)

KEY WEST, Fla.—A highway stretching through the picturesque Florida Keys, running out to sea and connecting this island city with the United States mainland, is nearing completion. Contractors announced the gigantic task of converting 40 miles of abandoned railroad viaducts and roadway into a modern highway would be completed in March or early April. They expect to open the road to public use immediately after it is finished.

Their final efforts are concentrated on laying a roadbed over an 18-mile ferry gap, the final link in a highway made possible through a tragic hurricane and a $3,600,000 PWA loan.

It was the Labor Day hurricane of 1935, which destroyed the late Henry M. Flagler's $25,000,000 railroad line to Key West and interrupted rehabilitation efforts of the federal government here, that prompted the PWA loan to the overseas road and toll bridge district for construction of the highway.

Rail Line Abandoned.

The Interstate Commerce Commission granted the Florida East Coast railroad permission to abandon the 40 miles of viaducts, bridges and right of way along which the hurricane had twisted rails beyond feasible repair. These were sold to the road and toll bridge district for $640,000.

The overseas highway is laid over these former railroad bridges and keys roadway which spanned the water gaps between here and the Florida mainland and crossed the tiny islands.

Where concrete arches ranging from 13 to 15 feet wide existed on the former railroad bridges, water-proofed steel cross beams have been secured into slots in the walls. On these beams the concrete slabs for the 20-foot roadway have been laid.

An integral part of the overseas highway is the 40-mile stretch which formerly was traversed by ferry. The highway begins officially 7 miles southeast of Florida City, southernmost United States mainland city, where a two-mile bridge connects the mainland with Key Largo.

Between 1923 and 1926, 61 miles of highway were constructed through the keys and over short water gaps from Florida City to the ferry landing at Lower Matecumbe Key.

Status of False Teeth Puzzling To Tax Bureau

DENVER — (NS) — Ralph A. Nichols, collector for the United States Bureau of Internal Revenue, was called on recently here to decide if a pair of false teeth could be classed as capital assets.

A taxpayer filed an income tax and claimed deductions for loss of his false teeth, contending that it was not a personal loss but a capital loss.

Since such a question had not been propounded to his office before, Nichols took the question to a number of experts asking their opinion. One said, "If the teeth had fallen out of the taxpayer's mouth and broken it would have been a casualty within the meaning of the regulations."

"However, here is a case of a taxpayer who simply lost his teeth without any of these circumstances involved," Nicholas said. "I doubt if he can claim a deduction but we will have to get a ruling from the revenue department."

SMOKES PIPE ON 111TH BIRTHDAY

Aged Texas Woman Winner In Tobacco Contest.

DALLAS, Tex. — (NS) — Mrs. Sadie Cornett not at all fussed by the fact that she has passed the 111-year mark, puffed her pipe contentedly today and reminisced about the Civil war.

Mrs. Cornett celebrated her 111the birthday recently, and was presented with a wheel chair with new cushions, flowers, a cake and a bank containing 111 new pennies.

The native of Missouri is an inmate of the county convalescent home. Two years ago she won first prize at the Texas centennial exposition's pipe smoking contest. She won $25—and spent it on tobacco.

Genius never amounts to much unless it is backed by common sense.

Rioters Jailed, Injured In Vienna Street Fighting

NAZIS OPPOSE SCHUSCHNIGG'S CALL FOR VOTE

Orders Plebiscite to Decide If Chancellor Hitler Will Dominate Austria.

(By Associated Press)

VIENNA—Mounting tension resulted today in street fights in which 11 men were injured and 23 arrested or detained as Nazis and Fatherland front campaigned for the Sunday plebiscite on Chancellor Schuschnigg's policy of independence for Austria.

Hundreds paraded the downtown section, their cries of "Hail Schuschnigg;" or "Heil Hitler!" rising high above the usual roar of traffic.

The entire police force was called out on an emergency basis that will continue through Sunday.

The two main army garrisons at Vienna were held in readiness with motors of troup lorries constantly running.

The issue was whether the influence of Schuschnigg or of Chancellor Hitler of Germany should predominate in Austria.

Youths Lead Protest.

The Nazis were angered because they had no advance notice of the plebiscite to be held Sunday, and because citizens under 24 may not vote. Austrian youths appear to be the element most interested in Nazism.

Vienna was blanketed by Nazi handbills before dawn, and there was much lusty shouting and marching. Disorders were minor but there were fears of grave incidents.

Nazis conferred through the night and into the day, and with them was the Nazi-inclined minister of the interior, Arthur Seyss-Inquart. There was, however, no authentic information on reports he would resign in anger over the plebiscite call.

Schuschnigg dramatically announced the national vote to test his strength in his fight for Austrian independence in a speech to a labor audience at Innsbruck yesterday.

"I desire and must know," he said, "whether the Austrian people want this free German (speaking) independent, social, christian, unified, partyless Austria."

His appeal stemmed from the weeks of unrest since he met the German Fuehrer Hitler in Germany last month.

The results of that meeting were appointment of five ministers favorable to Germany, release of political prisoners in Austria, and easing of restrictions on the outlawed Nazi party.

Schuschnigg made clear in a subsequent speech to the Austrian parliament that the Hitler meeting would result in no further concessions, and that there was "no thought of union with Germany."

Doctor Leaps To Safety As Train Crashes Into Car

LOUDONVILLE—Dr. G. B. Fuller's call last night to the Howard Pifer home, three miles north of here, was a costly one.

The Loudonville physician's automobile was struck by the Liberty Limited, crack east-bound Pennsylvania flyer, and demolished in a freak accident a short distance from the Pifer residence. The doctor had plenty of time to escape.

Dr. Fuller lost control of the car as he drove onto a crossing on a lane off the Perrysville-Loudonville highway and the car started down the railroad tracks.

Before he could get back to the road, the train came into sight.

Dr. Fuller leaped to safety before the train crashed into the car, carrying it a half mile down the track before the wreckage of the automobile derailed the engine.

The train was delayed three and a half hours as workmen labored to get the engine back on the track.

HUNT PASSER OF FORGED CHECK

Police Look for 'Poorly Dressed Man' as Check's Found Worthless.

Police today were searching for a poorly dressed man who passed a forged check on Elwood Kahler, attendant at the Standard Oil station, Mulberry and Fourth streets, on March 2.

The man gave a $10 check drawn on J. E. Appleman, in payment for a $1.65 purchase. He said the check was in payment for a calf he had just sold. Kahler gave police a description of the man.

The check was found to be a forgery at the bank on which it was drawn, police said.

U. S. Rejects British, Dutch Air Base Plan

WON'T PERMIT PLANE STOPS AT HAWAIIAN PORTS

Government Seeks to Prevent Islands From Being Exposed to Foreign Conflict.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The government has rejected, for reasons of national defense, the applications of British and Dutch aviation interests for permission to establish commercial air bases in Hawaii, the United Press learned today.

The major reason for refusal was this government's unwillingness to expose its Hawaiian defense to view from foreign-flag airlines over which it would have little control.

Sought As Stopover.

British interests sought Hawaii as a stopping place on a proposed Pacific airline from Australia to Vancouver, B. C. The Dutch were said to be interested in extending an air service from the Dutch East Indies into Manila and then to the United States via Hawaii.

A government official explained that if permission had been granted, there was a likelihood that other nations—he specifically mentioned Japan—might seek similar concessions.

Pan-American Airways at present has a contract with New Zealand to carry the mails between Hawaii and that country. The contract contains a clause which would permit suspension of the agreement if the United States refuses applications by British commercial air interests to utilize American Pacific island ports.

Another factor that was said to have prompted the rejection was the desire of officials to wait the outcome of pending civil aviation legislation which would define, among other things, the agency or individual authorized to grant landing certificates to foreign air lines.

There is pending in the house the Lea bill, which would set up a five-man civil aviation commission and empower the president to grant landing certificates to foreign-flag air lines and flight certificates to American firms flying to foreign ports.

Although it has been a couple of years since he extended his first invitation, Mott still gets space in the newspapers and magazines. A story on Mott's "hunting paradise" appeared in an oddity column in the last issue of the American magazine.

The classroom dignity of a few faculty members of schools in the Mansfield sector might become upset if their nicknames ever become the property of students. To lessen the monotony of winter evenings, a group of unmarried teachers have organized a basketball team, and nicknames have been given all the players. Such names as "Tarzan," "Kayo," "Long John," "Wimpey," and "Speed" would not sound very dignified in a classroom, they say.

SOIL CLINIC

Expert to Advise on Planting In Two-Day Stay Here.

R. L. Waring, New York City, soil specialist, will be in charge of a free soil clinic Friday and Saturday at the Myers Farm Supply store, 132 North Main street.

The clinic, sponsored by the Lantz Mills, will afford Richland county farmers an opportunity to have the soil on their farms analyzed before starting their spring planting, attaches of the Lantz mills said.

Waring will advise farmers on crop rotations, plant feeding, liming and building the organic content of the soil.

Information obtained from a recent anaylsis of a number of samples of soil from the county will be given to farmers at the meetings.

CIO RAPS JURIST IN RACKET CASE

Voices 'Strong Disapproval' of Action In Cleveland Extortion Trial.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—The Cleveland Industrial council, composed of CIO-affiliated unions, expressed today "strong disapproval" of Judge Alva R. Corlett's refusal to release on bail pending appeal Don A. Campbell and John E. McGee, labor leaders convicted of extortion.

Campbell and McGee, identified with AFL unions, were sentenced to from one to five years in the state penitentiary after a common pleas jury convicted them Tuesday of obtaining $1,200 from a restaurant executive under threat of construction work delay.

They were denied bail and lodged in prison less than 10 hours after the jury returned its verdict.

"Their conduct during the trial was such as to forfeit any consideration as to bail pending appeal," said Judge Corlett.

Abraham W. Katovsky, International Ladies' Garment Workers union executive, introduced a motion criticizing the judge's action at a meeting of the Industrial council last night. It passed unanimously.

Judge Corlett yesterday denied motions for a new trial for Campbell and McGee, after disclosing he received a "tip" that a $25,000 fund was raised to "fix" the extortion trial jury.

METCALF HITS BACK AT DAVEY, ASKS HIM IF HE'S 'AFRAID'

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—The political warfare between Governor Davey and Senator Verner E. Metcalf (R.) Washington, continued today with the investigating committee member attacking the chief executive for failure to discharge Joseph Maiden, liquor department enforcement officer.

Replying to a statement issued by Davey, Metcalf defended the committee and his action in introducing several resolutions calling upon the governor to discharge four state employes and then said:

"Governor, you say that you would not hesitate to send any faithless state official to the grand jury. What about Joe Maiden, a proven forger not for $30 as you would have the people believe, but for many times this amount. At the same time he was committing this forgery, putting in fake and false hotel bills, raising his expense items, he was conducting a political headquarters for you in the city of Lorain.

"Are you afraid to fire him? Are you afraid to demand that his name be sent before the grand jury? What's wrong between yourself and Joe Maiden that you still insist by your actions and statements in protecting him and permitting him to draw a handsome salary and go unmolested on his job?

"How inconsistent you are. You keep this proven criminal on the state pay roll and at the same time you fire Mr. (Harry) Sparks, a man who dared tell the truth."

DISTRICT MEET

Hi-Y Representatives Coming to Mansfield Sunday.

Hi-Y club representatives from ten cities and towns will gather here Sunday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. for a meeting of the 15th district Hi-Y council.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

Social Security Inaction.

ONE OF the things very badly needing to be done but which certainly will not be done at this session, is clarification of the Social Security act, which, it is generally agreed, in its present amorphous and soggy shape, is not only unworkable but not understandable.

The necessity for amendments to make the act function, to safeguard the huge funds collected and to prevent a confusion that, unchecked, threatens collapse, is conceded by even the most ardent friends of the measure. No one claims that the act is what it should be. No one, including those who administer it, denies that changes are imperative. Yet, nothing—at this session, anyhow—is going to be done about it. The reasons are not far to seek. One, clearly, is political. Sharp criticism of the act has come from administration opponents and the "clarifying amendments" now in the senate were offered by Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, who more trenchantly than anyone else has exposed its grotesque impracticability. The administration would rather let the law remain in its present bewildering and inoperable form than accept amendments from Vandenberg, although these amendments seem simple, fair and wise.

ONE CALLS for holding pay-roll taxes at their present level of 2 per cent, half paid by employer and half by employe, until the whole subject can be restudied, instead of a year-by-year increase to a maximum of 6 per cent. Another would require pay-roll taxes to go automatically into an old-age reserve account and not be used for general expense. A third would require use of reserves for retiring of the existing national debt, not the creation of new debts in the form of bonds or notes. The arguments for these Vandenberg amendments are so strong that there does not seem much answer to them. But no action is going to be taken on them, largely, it is believed, because they come from Vandenberg.

THERE seems here a duplication of the Senator Byrd and departmental reorganization incident. Though reorganization is urgently needed, the administration would rather have none than accept suggestion from Senator Byrd, who is not regarded as a friend. In the case of the Social Security law, though there is grave concern over the situation, the proposals for ameliorating are ignored because they came from the wrong source. In the reorganization business, the administration's effort was to blanket Senator Byrd with the presentation of an elaborate and comprehensive plan of its own. In the matter of Social Security, however, it seems unable to do this.

IT WILL not take the Vandenberg proposals and it is unable to find acceptable or reasonable substitutes. The Social Security advisory council, conceived by the administration, was named months ago to prepare a revision of the act so as to make it workable. It has had a good many meetings, but, if the Vandenberg amendments are to be ignored, the problem seems too much for the advisory counsel. At least, it has submitted no report and made no recommendations. Nor are any likely to appear before next year—if then.

* * *

THE FACT seems to be that the administration and the advisory council are unable to make up their minds as to what ought to be done. Therefore nothing will be done. The whole sticky business will be allowed to drift another year, with the treasury using the receipts for paying current governmental expenses and putting in its promissory notes, which ultimately will have to be redeemed through additional taxes, which, one way or another, will come out of the weekly pay roll already being pinched to supply the present Social Security funds. Failure to act, in face of the conceded need, seems indefensible. Yet no action is contemplated.

DIES IN SHELBY

Mrs. Helen Brickley, 84, Was Native of City.

SHELBY—Mrs. Helen Brickley, 84, lifelong resident of Shelby, died early today in Shelby Memorial hospital following an illness of several months.

Mrs. Brickley was born April 21, 1853, in Plymouth township, north of here, and spent her entire life in this vicinity. She was a lifelong member of the Methodist Episcopal church here.

Surviving are two sons, Dallas of near Plymouth, and Burton of Shelby; a sister, Miss Esther Wheeler of Lakeside, O.; a brother, Sherman Wheeler of Bellefontaine, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Dick and Dye funeral home with Rev. W. W. Ralph, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Billie Burke's course through the movies has taken her from one totally coo-coo family to another. In "Merrily We Live" she is planted happily as giddy mother in a household whose existence is excited and enlivened by her weakness for sheltering and regenerating tramps.

The family circle includes Clarence Kolb as a father who tries to believe he is head of the house; Constance Bennett as flip elder daughter; Tom Brown as adolescent son continually fighting for his "rights"; Bonita Granville as kid sister, and Alan Mowbray as the butler who loathes tramps.

Into this maelstrom wanders innocently Brian Aherne, whiskered and tattered, begging the use of the telephone because his car has gone over a cliff. Against his protests he is inducted to the family chauffeurship as first step in his "regeneration," and from then on—merrily they live.

Miss Burke adds an engaging absent-mindedness to her usual flitter-flutter, and in one sequence at least—that in which she rehearses Aherne in buttling for the dinner party—had one spectator almost literally rolling in the aisle. Norman Z. McLeod directed.

"Mad About Music" is Deanna Durbin's third feature film. With it and "100 Men and a Girl" as entries, she is almost certain to bounce someone off that select list of "first 10" box-office stars next tabulation time.

The new one, directed by Norman Taurog, casts Deanna as a schoolgirl in Switzerland, daughter of a Hollywood glamor girl whose career would be imperiled if people knew she had a child that age. Loyally silent, Deanna has no mother to speak of to schoolmates, invents a heroic explorer-father. When events compel her to produce this fable to save face, she seizes on Herbert Marshall—and from beginning to end the little comedy takes hold and won't let go. It's one of those films that make you glad movies are made—so full is it of understanding and humor, tenderness and brightness. Deanna sings, and nicely, but that is merely dessert for the feast provided by a completely heart-winning picture. Arthur Treacher, Jackie Moran, Marcia Mae Jones and Helen Parrish (the heavy) are among the excellent support.

Another child singer, Bobby Breen, comes forth in a minor piece in which "Hawaii Calls" to a San Francisco bootblack who wants to be a flier. Bobby stows away with his pal Pua (Pua Lani), for the islands, sings a great deal, and incidentally foils a whiskery spy plot. Nice scenery, nice singing, and nice Ned Sparks.

"Sally, Irene and Mary" is for filmusical fans of the principles—Alice Faye, Tony Martin, etcetera. With radio's Fred Allen, and Joan Davis, Gregory Ratoff, Jimmy Durante in the cast, the picture has its moments but is seldom as funny as it should be. Marjorie Weaver, kept pretty much in the background, shines just by being there. The story toys with the novel idea that the show must go on—if we girls are gonna eat.

Louis Hayward found out something that many never learn.... First year here, on advice, he had a chauffeur, limousine and big house, the latter especially attracting the usual hangers-on calling themselves friends. . . . Last year he drove his own small car, lived in a modest apartment—saved $20,000 and found out who his real friends were! Hollywood "front" is, in most cases, greatly over-rated.

Stingy Man Subject of Letter

By VIRGINIA LEE

I wonder how many fathers answer the description furnished by a letter which three daughters have written me concerning their dad. I would very much like to print the letter because it might wake some men up, but I was asked not to.

However, the case is like this: Most of the six children of the family are married and off the man's hands. He makes a fair salary and lives in the country where living costs are low. Moreover he owns cow and poultry. The two children and wife at home get very little, however, beyond board, room and a very few clothes.

While he is stingy with his family, this man is generous with outsiders and, according to the letter, spends money freely on his own hobbies.

The mother is in poor health and the children think she should receive medical attention, but the father laughs at his wife and says she is always "thinking things are wrong with her."

Neither mother nor children feel like talking matters over with this man, because they feel self-conscious in his presence.

Those traits are strangely familiar, girls. In fact, they are not confined to men. Folk generally are inclined to be stingy with the family but generous to outsiders.

What can these daughters do? I am hoping the husband and father will chance to read this column, recognize himself and reform. If not, the girls should take their mother to the doctor. Surely in these circumstances, a woman who has given birth to and brought up six children, has made a home for a man doing all the hard work that entails, is entitled to the same care a sick cow or pig would get. Father would send for the veterinary if the cow was ill, I am sure. Maybe he doesn't realize how much more dear his wife is to him than the other creatures on the farm. Maybe he is so used to her she is not even "a little nearer than his dog; a little dearer than his horse" any more.

At any rate, a woman like this one has a perfect right to medical attention if she needs it, in addition to her board, room and a few clothes. She should demand it. Really, I suppose it makes this man feel that he is a superior sort of being to have his wife and children afraid to talk freely to him and scared to have him get "mad."

Take your mother to a doctor, girls, and if she needs treatment get it for her before it is too late. And if she doesn't need it, a great worry will be taken off her shoulders and yours.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, March 11.

THE PLANETARY forecast for this day is for a particularly interesting and lively state of affairs, with much stirring in connection with writings, contracts, new business, publishing, advertising and travel. The affair of the young may also prove lucrative, possibly in educational or literary lines. Employment and associations with superiors and those in high places are under the stimuli for progress, promotion and a general state of prosperity.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a very active, progressive and prosperous year, with much concerning writings, new business, advertising or travel calling for association with employers, superiors or those in influential positions. Large plans may be developed by such friendly co-operation.

A child born on this day may be particularly versatile and clever, lively and companionable, with assured success in literature or promotional enterprise. It should succeed as a salesman or traveler.

If you have been unsuccessful in growing delphinium from seeds try soaking seeds for four or five days before planting, in a piece of damp cheesecloth, being careful not to let cloth get dry. Seeds treated in this way will come up in a week after they are planted.

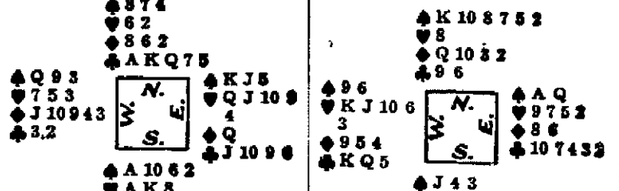
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

SIMPLE BUT VALUABLE

One of the least understood of extremely simple plays is sometimes an extremely valuable one. This is what experienced cardsmen call the "duck." It is just the reverse of the hold-up principle. The latter is to prevent the opponents from running a suit, whereas the "duck" is to help the declarer in running his suit: In many a hand, there is no other way to bring in a series of establishable little cards.



(Dealer South. Both sides vulnerable.)

One diamond was South's opening bid on this deal and North responded with 2-Clubs. South now called 2-Spades, North 3-Clubs and South 3-No Trump.

When West led the diamond J, in spite of South's bid of that suit, the declarer realized he could not pick up an extra trick in it, so put his faith in the club suit. Much to his surprise, the suit did not break, so that he won only three tricks in clubs, two in diamonds, two in hearts and one in spades.

Needing only four clubs, how simple the hand would have been had the declarer seen fit to make the contract perfectly safe by giving up one club to provide for a four-two split? With that simple precaution taken, nine tricks would have been cashed with ease.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer, South. East-West vulnerable.)

What is the correct bidding on this deal?

Cooked corn, beans and peas added to white sauce and poured over toast make a good luncheon dish. A garnish of crisp bacon adds flavor and nutrition.

Treat Hair For Permanent This Month

By JULIET SHELBY
(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

NOW IS THE time to start preparing if you are planning on a spring permanent wave. It is pretty important to do some preliminary work in advance. This bit of extra trouble will reward you well. Your hair will look glossy and alive, and the permanent will take better and stay in longer.

Even the most careful of us are more than apt to have a case of winter hair. The steam heat just naturally robs it of its natural oils, and when we are outside we always have a hat clamped firmly on our heads. So the poor hair has very little chance to take a deep breath. The result is that it's definitely not in the pink. There are split ends, dandruff or scaly scalp, and it's dry and lifeless.

So how about giving your crowning glory a break? Give it a chance to regain its health by a nice reconditioning period before you expect to be proud of it all decked out in a new wave.

First cut off the split ends and start fresh. You can either have this done by your hairdresser or do it yourself. Then make up your mind to a really thorough daily brushing. Brush it up from the neck, and lean over while you're doing it. This will bring blood up in the scalp and increase the circulation that you have started with the brush. Next brush it back from the hairline. After that part it in the center and give it a good going over. Don't give up until your scalp feels really stimulated, and here's something we found that made it seem less like work. Do it while listening to a radio or phonograph. You'd be surprised at how much more brushing you can get in without being tired or bored to death.

Next Step Easy.

The second step in reviving the hair is also very easy to do at home. Shampoo your hair with a good pure melted soap or a liquid shampoo. Rinse it until the hair squeaks when you rub it between your hands. After drying, heat a half pint of olive oil. Brush the hot oil over your scalp and through your hair with a stiff bristled brush. When you're completely oiled, wring out a towel that has been soaking in hot water and wrap it around your head. Keep putting on hot towels for about five minutes.

Leave the oil on over night if possible, but at any rate let it stay on for an hour.

Now for another shampoo and you're through until the next treatment, which should be in either 10 days or two weeks. Of course the length of time that it will take to recondition your hair depends on the shape it's in when you start. But keep it up until the dryness and scalp flakes have disappeared. It won't really take too long, and you'll be rewarded with shining tresses as well as soft ringlets.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I am not usually startled by a request to speak to my husband over the telephone, but something about the request of the night operator at the hotel frightened me.

In the first place, by Philip Veritzen's request, the presence of Mary and myself in the hotel was shrouded in secrecy. I knew that our names did not appear on the public register and that no one save the members of our immediate families knew of our whereabouts.

Surely Dicky had not given our telephone number to anyone so that he could be called at our suite. There were only two other alternatives. Philip Veritzen was trying to get us over long distance and the operator had thought he had asked for Mr. Graham instead of Mrs. Graham.

Or, and my throat muscles tightened at the thought, something had happened at the farmhouse.

"Mr Graham is not here," I quavered. "Are you sure the message is not for me? Is it a long distance message?"

Is Local Message.

"No, it is a local message." The reply came with merciful quickness, and I breathed freely again. "And it is for Mr. Graham. The party was most explicit. Please wait a minute."

I knew that he had closed my circuit and was questioning the person who had called for Dicky. In another second the voice of the operator sounded again.

"This person is most insistent that she talk to you," he said. "But if you do not wish to talk to her, I will see that you are not disturbed again."

His voice was apologetic, and I scented trouble. Whoever was calling Dicky was making some sort of scene and the operator, mindful of the warning concerning our treatment given out by the hotel manager under Philip Veritzen's instructions, did not wish to involve me.

But my curiosity — that fatal feminine weakness—was aroused, together with my resentment, and my answer was decisive.

"I will talk to her," I said. "Put her on the wire."

"Very well!" The operator's voice held a resigned note and I could visualize his reluctant face. The next moment, a raucous feminine voice, which by no stretch of imagination could be called that of a gentlewoman, came to my ears.

Demands Dicky.

"I want to talk to Dicky Graham. I know he's there. Call him to the phone—please."

The last word was plainly an afterthought—and a perfunctory one at that. I fought hard to keep utter distaste out of my own voice.

"I am sorry," I said courteously, "but Mr. Graham is not here. He left just a few minutes ago."

"That's a lie," the woman said bluntly. "Don't hand me any bunk like that. I've been watching this dump, and I know he hasn't gone out in the last 15 minutes. And who might you be, anyway?"

Madge Cuts Her Off.

The woman was drunk! I was sure of it, from her unsteady voice. Instead of answering her, I joggled the receiver, and the operator answered instantly.

"Yes," he said.

"This is Mrs. Graham," I said. "Will you kindly convince this person that Mr. Graham is not here, and do not permit her to disturb me again."

I hung up the receiver without waiting for his reply, but not quickly enough to escape entirely the barrage of drunken invective which the woman at the other end of the wire was beginning to send into the telephone.

Dizzy and faint, I went back to my chair and slumped into it, while my mind raced over the incident just closed. In what kind of "jam" to quote his own words, was Dicky involved that an intoxicated woman should be calling me and demanding that I produce him?

The safest way to uncover beds and borders which have been protected by straw, hay or similar material throughout the Winter, is to take it off a little at a time as soon as the heavy frost has left the ground. Frequently one or two nights of freezing weather come late in the Spring and a little protection will be helpful then. It always pays to have a small amount of hay or straw ready to throw over plants which are just starting through the ground if a period of cold weather is threatened. Naturally, young shoots just starting into growth are tender.

Always remove the oil sack from a chicken or turkey and draw the tendons in the legs. This makes them more tender.

DATE BLANC MANGE—Beat three eggs and add two tablespoons cornstarch to them, beating it in. Scald one quart of milk in double boiler and add gradually to the eggs and cornstarch, or, if you wish to save a dish, beat up the eggs and cornstarch in the cold double boiler, then add two tablespoons sugar and a little salt, then the cold milk gradually, beating it all in well until it is smooth, then put on fire and keep stirring until the mixture is hot and thick. Keep on stirring while the water in the bottom of the boiler boils, so as to cook the pudding for several moments. When it is done, add a teaspoon of your favorite flavoring—I used almond recently—and pour over a cup of dates that have been seeded and cut in half. Mix dates through the pudding and turn into a mold which has previously been rinsed in cold water. Put aside to cool. Serve cold with cream.

Materials used in making slip covers should always be shrunk before using. They will not then shrink when laundered.

When cleaning bamboo furniture go over it with a brush dipped in salt water.
